CAMBRIDGE WIN BOAT RACE THIRTEENTH TRIUMPH IN SUCCESSION DARK BLUES PUT UP GALLANT FIGHT AFTER WINNING TOSS

London, Yesterday.

Despite the fact they won the toss and got away to a good start, Oxford University lost the Boat Race yesterday for the thirteenth successive year, the official result being given as a win for Cambridge by 5 lengths in 21 minutes 6 seconds — 1 minute 18 seconds slower than last year's winning time.

This was the 88th race in a series dating back to 1829 and represented the Light Blues' 47th success, as against Oxford's 40 — there was a dead-heat in 1877.

After a thrilling finishing burst none of the Cambridge crew appeared distressed and the Oxford eight, apart from L. V. Gar-side and J. C. Cherry, all sat up manfully.

HAUPTMANN EXECUTED COURAGE MAINTAINED IN FACE OF 45 WITNESSES

Trenton, N.J., Yesterday.

A crime that shocked the world was avenged in the early hours of this morning when Richard Bruno Hauptmann, convicted killer of the Lindbergh baby, which was stolen from his crib on March 1, 1932, went to the electric chair after many desperate efforts to escape the vengeance of justice.

Hauptmann met his death in the electric chair at 8.47 p.m. local time. He did not confess and did not utter a word after he entered the little death chamber, which was crowded with 45 witnesses. Hauptmann was pale and weak, but walked un-assisted to the chair. Three shocks were administered at minute intervals, after which three physicians pronounced Hauptmann dead.

MEETING IN BELGRADE

LITTLE ENTENTE
TO CONFER

"COMMON PEACE FRONT"

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Prague, Yesterday.

The representatives of the three Little Entente States will assemble at Belgrade on May 6 in an extraordinary meeting, in order to deal with the situation arising in consequence of the abroca-tion of the Locarno Treaty and the introduction of compulsory mili-tary service by Austria, according to press reports here to-day.

It is reiterated that the question of the co-ordination of a "common peace front" with the other Powers will also form one of the chief topics of discussion.

HUNGARIAN ATTITUDE

Budapest: Hungary will not follow Austria's example by intro-ducing compulsory military service on her own initiative, according to a semi-official statement issued here to-day, which stresses that while the Hungarian Government considers that its claim to military equality is fully justified on moral and legal grounds, it nevertheless will refrain from taking any action in this matter, especially without previous consultation with the other States.—Trans-Ocean Service.

French Ministers Meet To Draw Up Note To Britain

Paris, Yesterday.—The confer-ence of French Ambassadors, which was held yesterday at the Quai d'Orsay, will be succeeded to-day by discussions between the representatives of all the French Ministries concerned in the draw-ing up of the forthcoming note which, so well-informed quarters stress, will in any case be ready before the Cabinet meets on Mon-day as scheduled. On the other hand political circles here are in-clined to believe that the Cabinet has not yet agreed on the question of whether the note will be handed only to the British Government or will be remitted also to Belgium and Italy.

The note, according to the paper, will declare in favour of a Euro-pean policy pursued within the framework of the League of Nations. Hence it is generally expected here, says the paper, that the League Council will be con-vened, either shortly after Easter or in the course of the month of May, after the French elections.—Trans-Ocean Service.

PLANE HANGARS DESTROYED

ADOWA VETERANS TAKE UP BOLD FRONT
BUT PROVE MORE DANGEROUS TO THEIR OWN PEOPLE!

Addis Ababa, Yesterday.

Five planes without warning appeared over Addis Ababa this morning, two flying at a height of about 60 feet, and fired on the city with machine-guns, riddling the hangar with bullets and destroying an old aeroplane. But there was no loss of life and the wireless apparatus was not touched.

Aged Adowa veterans appeared at every nook of the city, armed with antiquated rifles, which they fired wildly into the air, endangering the inhabitants more than the enemy.

When the sound of the aeroplanes was heard the foreigners hastened to their respective Legations, where the dugouts and trenches were rapidly filled. The police behaved admirably. They proceeded immediately to their appointed stations and prevented any looting.

The Italian planes were apparently not hit, and departed after flying for nearly an hour over the city and its suburbs.

POISON GAS USED BY ITALIANS

CONFIRMATION

WOMEN AND CHILDREN
KILLED

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

London, Yesterday.

The use of poison gas by the Italian troops in Abyssinia has been confirmed by the British Red Cross delegate, Captain Town-son, in a report drawn up by him after his return to Addis Ababa from the northern front, affirms that during the month of March the British field hospital treated some 3,000 Abyssinian men, women and children suffering from the effects of gas-poisoning, more than 60 of whom succumbed to their injuries.

The report, according to the papers, goes on to say that the gas, which was blown off from reservoirs placed under the wings of the Italian aeroplanes, covers the earth like dew and produces its effects after about an hour.

Other despatches received here assert that the Italians employed flame-throwers in the advance on Harrar and also dropped gas-bombs on the town.—Trans-Ocean Service.

BRITAIN AND CHINA

SIR A. CADOGAN
INTERVIEWED

GRATITUDE FOR FRIENDLY
ATTITUDE

Shanghai, Yesterday.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, the re-tiring British Ambassador, ex-pressed his appreciation of the friendly spirit evidenced by the Chinese to Great Britain in a far-ewell press interview to-day. He sincerely hoped that in the coming years China would continue along the lines of progress.

He designated Shanghai and the Yangtze Valley as the focal points of the British interest in China, and said that British Treasury of-fices are to be opened at Shang-hai and Tokyo.—Reuter.

BOLSHEVISM DENOUNCED

Britain's Obligations
To France

LORD MOUNT TEMPLE'S
WARNING

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

London, Yesterday.

An energetic warning against the Bolshevik peril is uttered in a letter to The Times by Lord Mount Temple, who strongly pro-claims therein against the eventual support of Soviet Russia by Britain.

The fear is widespread through-out Britain, writes Lord Mount Temple, that France may become involved in war in consequence of the Franco-Russian pact, and that Britain may also be drawn into such a war. The British nation, says the author, would be roused to the utmost indignation if it should be dragged into a war to defend Bolshevism and would re-fuse to allow the Union Jack to fly alongside the Red Flag.

The Soviet Government, which has flagrantly violated its solemn promise not to undertake revolu-tionary propaganda in the British Empire, cannot, so Lord Mount Temple goes on to declare, be con-sidered a friend or ally of Britain. The letter concludes by recalling that the Soviet Government has never made the slightest attempt to repay even a single penny of the debt of more than £1,000,000,000 which it owes to Britain.—Trans-Ocean Service.

PINGYANGFU LIBERATED

Reds Driven Out By
Shansi Forces

Peking, Yesterday.

Chinese sources at Taiyuanfu declare that the siege of Ping-yangfu was raised yesterday, when the Shansi troops drove off several hundred Commun-ists, who put up a stiff fight. The Shansi forces claim that hundreds of Reds were killed. They entered the city at 4 p.m. and with the garrison, combed the city and its suburbs for Red stragglers.—Reuter.

NEW SPANISH AMBASSADOR IN LONDON

POLICE OFFICER SHOT DEAD

FATAL ENDING TO HOUSE RAID

Fateghar, Yesterday.

Mr. Gilbert Wheeler, Colo-nial Superintendent of Police, was shot dead and an Indian sub-in-pector was fatally injured when they were raiding a house in which a murderer was hiding. The latter was found shot dead when the police finally broke in.—Reuter.

SHORT STORY

Mr. Trotwell Comes Home

By A. M. BURRAGE

MRS. MILLAN spoke, hoping that her voice was audible above the slamming of the door and the reverberations attendant upon door-slaming in any of the little houses recently erected on the property of the Hagwort Homes Estate, Ltd. The hope was justified, for she had a clear ringing voice and she was a fine elocutionist.

"All right, then," she said. "Go out—and stay out!" Charles Millan was already obeying the first injunction, and he would have liked to obey the second. But a man must sleep somewhere. He would have to return later, but by that time he might be fortunate enough to find Gertrude unconscious in repose. She talked in her sleep, to be sure, but not always to him or at him.

With his feet on the pavement he turned his face to the left. At the bottom of the road the corner house was styled the "Cobbler's Arms," although nobody had explained what a cobbler might have to do with heraldry. Charles Millan was going to treat his sorrows precisely as his wife had that very day ordered him to treat the latest batch of kittens.

Somewhere in the heaviness of his heart there lurked a kind of naughty joy. He hadn't told Gertrude about those last two rises of his. It was better to be slanged for being a stick-in-the-mud and enjoy a reasonable amount of pocket money. Gertrude still thought that he was mangling on ten shillings a week and buying his lunches out of it.

Yes, he could afford to drown his sorrows sometimes, but Gertrude rarely noticed the effects of the drowning. When she did she was always willing to accept the plausible excuse that he had been sponging on somebody. It was almost the only kind of untruth at all likely to deceive her.

Part of his misfortune he attributed, in whimsical moods, to his having neglected the works of Charles Dickens until too late. Else he must have met Sam Weller senior, learned that gentleman's expressed views on widows, and perhaps taken warning. For the present Mrs. Millan was already obeying the first injunction, and he would have liked to obey the second. But a man must sleep somewhere. He would have to return later, but by that time he might be fortunate enough to find Gertrude unconscious in repose.

fashion he was, in the legal sense, the most faithful of husbands. No, he spent his money openly and in the come-by-chance society of the public houses, where shillings can buy at least civility and a measure of peace, good company and apparent good fellowship.

They expected him at the Cobbler's Arms. He never spoke of his domestic troubles, but in some mysterious way his fellow frequenters knew and discussed them behind his back. They knew the almost regular hour at which he was driven from home. That evening, as his hand fell on the lever of the door, he heard a voice inside say, "I bet that's Millan."

"You're right," said Millan briefly, and went up to the counter. Good evening, Miss Fortescue. The usual, please."

Miss Fortescue drew it in a tankard, remarked that it was a fine evening, and then, in the casual way in which people all unknowingly surging the beginnings of an overwhelming surprise, she began:

"Oh, there was a gentleman inquiring for you half an hour ago."

"Didn't know I knew any," said Charles Millan, cynically. "Who was it?"

"He didn't say his name. I told him what was your usual time and he said he'd look back."

"Oh!" said Millan and frowningly began to wonder: what stranger might come there to look for him. His experience of strangers who came to look for him was that they had no friendly purpose in view. At the best they meant to extract money from him.

"Well, this one's going to be unlucky," said Millan to himself as he raised his glass, and all unconsciously he uttered a true prophecy.

A minute later the door creaked open and swung to, and a tall salow man of about Millan's own age entered the bar. He spoke to the young woman behind the counter.

"Mr. Millan been in yet?" he asked.

Miss Fortescue suddenly found herself in an agony of tact, and looked doubtful. Millan came to the rescue.

"That's my name," he said. "Oh!" The other smiled a little awkwardly. "Er—good evening."

"Good evening. What can I do for you?"

"Oh, I'd like to speak to you just for a minute." The voice was soft and mysterious. "Let's see—oh, you've got a drink? Come and sit down over here, if you don't mind. It's rather important."

Millan believed him. We who lead humdrum lives are always perturbed by the advent of mysterious strangers. Millan's unnamed faculty—the faculty which we all own—assured him that this was to be something more than mere fishing for a pound note.

They sat down together out of the hearing of Miss Fortescue—who looked suddenly displeased about something.

"First of all," said the Stranger, "my name's Trotwell."

Millan started slightly and stared. Well, he wasn't going to have any member of that family sponging on him. There was a limit somewhere.

"Oh?" he said. "Any relation to my wife's first husband?"

"I am your wife's first husband," said Mr. Trotwell.

The atmosphere in the room thickened so that Charles Millan could hardly see.

"But you're dead," said Charles Millan, dully.

"Officially—yes. But I'm not the first dead man to turn up again alive, and I shan't be the last. Ever read Eugene Aram?"

The error in bibliography startled Millan into clearer consciousness.

"Don't you mean Enoch Arden?" he asked.

"Oh, I daresay. It's all the same. Never was much of a bookworm. Never went in very much for poetry. How's Gertrude?"

"Oh, she's—er—the same as usual," Millan said desperately.

"Yes. I was afraid she would be. I say, this is rather bad luck on you. There's all sorts of things I ought to explain."

"Are there?—Yes, I suppose there are. I saw a newspaper cutting of your death. She showed it to me. It's about her most treasured possession."

"Ah!" said the new Enoch Arden, "that was in the Bloomsbury Weekly Record. I put it in. I was the editor. And I took darned good care that she had a copy sent her. Of course, in the summer in Hong Kong we have to keep all our clothes in the drying room."

"LADY, GOOD HEAVENS, AND GO ABOUT IN THE NUDE?"

resentments became suddenly a haunting panorama. Gertrude had never raised the devil in him but she had at least raised a scorpion.

"I can't help that," said Millan in answer to the charge of cruelty. "One has to be cruel—sometimes."

"I know," said the other, his teeth just showing through a smile. "I daresay I could be cruel—if I liked."

"One moment," said Millan, "and then we'll go."

He walked up to the counter and gave an order.

"Oh, Mistah Millan," exclaimed the refined creature beyond the counter, as she poured out a large dose of brandy, "har you feeling hunwell?"

The two men walked to Millan's house almost in silence. Millan let them both in with a latch-key. His skin tingled all over with the strangest excitement he had ever felt.

Gertrude was in the drawing-room. Millan stalked in, leaving his guest to follow. Gertrude, standing by the open piano, stared at him, resentment preparing to dawn behind the question in her gaze.

"Who's that you've brought in?" she asked rapidly.

Millan swallowed.

"A man," he answered. "A man who says he used to know you."

Trotwell came forward, stepping to where the light beat down upon his face.

"Gertrude," he said.

Mrs. Millan answered the unasked question as tactfully as it was put. She reeled and her arm falling on the keyboard struck a tremendous chord. Then she fell, half kneeling and hid her face in her sleeve. For a moment pity stirred in its sleep and did not wake.

Millan said nothing, but he turned on his heel and went upstairs. Groping half blindly in drawers he picked out underclothes and flung them haphazard into a bag. Then he tramped downstairs again. Gertrude ran out into the hall to meet him.

"Where are you going?" she cried wildly.

He answered her quite pitilessly, astonished at his own brutality.

"What is that to you?" he said.

"You know my office address. If there is any reason why you should want to write to me. But I hope there won't be. Goodbye."

And he got past her, not roughly, and slammed the door.

Five minutes later he passed through the Gate of Freedom. He called it that for the first time. Hitherto it had been only the main entrance of the railway station.

Feeling Tired?

You can feel fit
again—and so easily too!

Listlessness and fatigue, in nine cases out of ten, are caused by nervous trouble, and when you take Sanatogen you drink in pure strength.

Heat, worry or overwork — these are just some of the many reasons why you are suffering from over-strained nerves. Unless you find extra strength to withstand the strain, loss of youth and health is bound to be the result.

Sanatogen was made to strengthen the nerves, to revitalize tired, run-down people. To thousands, the use of Sanatogen has meant a new lease of life.

Here is the opinion of a lady, who suffered for years:—

"It is years, since I felt so well and happy. I was full of pain and depression through indigestion and nervousness, but now, through Sanatogen, the world and all that is in it, is brighter and more cheerful."

— writes Miss G. H.

Think of how much better life would be if you could once more enjoy that priceless feeling of youthful health, and if you were again full of energy and cheerfulness. And such health is really within easy reach. You need not go to a lot of trouble. Simply start taking Sanatogen three times a day and you will soon pick up.

You will notice how quickly Sanatogen satisfies the starved nervous system, how it conquers that run-down feeling. You will feel better and you will look better. You will feel a new woman, full of youthful vitality, and your friends will tell you "How well you look!"

Gaiety The Keynote In Fashions

CHINESE AND NAPOLEONIC INFLUENCE

London.
FRESH and crisp as the tissue-paper that envelopes them, are waiting the new Spring frocks. The last week-end it looked as if they could start their career, but with the weather as it is now it seems incongruous to talk of Spring frocks. Still, frocks of the latest edition have a gaiety that challenges one to be ready. Here are a few I have seen.

One of the first bears the touch of the Chinese—a mere flavouring, not more. (You know how a chef uses a dash of and not a whole onion to give savour to a sauce.) There will be long tunics with flattering side fastenings. One made of black crepe has already crossed our path; the knee-length tunic coat with its side fastening is accentuated in a distinctive manner by a vividly coloured flower print. This is for the older woman.

Personal And Domestic Problems Solved

Dear Helen—
All Enquiries will be Treated in Confidence

Dear Helen,
I am in love with a girl—whether she loves me or not, I don't know. We are good friends, but we very seldom meet. I've written to her, but never talked about love, and her replies have always been friendly. I feel very depressed at the moment, for I can't write to her, as her very strict father is now back in the home after being some time away.

I love her so much that although she may not feel the same towards me, I seem to be guilty of something if I "step out" with any other girl or "do things" that I know she does not like.

She is a very studious school-girl and homely; and with a strict father, I wonder what chance have I to see her anywhere. How can a girl know I love her when I can't write to her or see her to tell her so? Will you, please, tell me whether you think my love for her is forlorn, or have I still a chance?

RENDEZVOUS.

I think you still have plenty of chances. But I also think you must be very patient. If this girl you love is still only at school, you can hardly blame her father for not encouraging young men about the house! I cannot advise you, when she is so young, to arrange clandestine meetings; and so your only course is to take your courage in your hands and call on this strict father of hers. Ask him if he would mind very much if you took his daughter to the cinema. If he is unpleasant about it, invite him as well! Show him that you really are fond of the girl and are not just wanting to flirt with her.

If none of the foregoing is feasible, and you know she will not get your letters, why not send her a box of chocolates, or some flowers, from time to time.

Napoleon III

COSTUME plates of many periods have been consulted. The broad plastron of the Napoleon III uniform is transcribed into the dainty feminine affair seen here. A frill of pleated white handkerchief linen, banded at the head with strips of red linen, suggests the broad shoulder and narrow waist. The frock is of black pure silk crepe. A fabric that is finding a place in the Spring mode is a two-faced faconne taffeta of pure silk. It is spotted in a contrasting colour—say black on red; on the other side the colour scheme is carried out in the reverse order.

DOES YOUR DOG DISOBEY?

PROBABLY your furry lump of mischief is stone deaf when you call him, or has a pressing engagement in the opposite direction. To catch him and beat him is useless. It only makes him still less inclined to come the next time you call him. You will never get much out of a dog you whip, and a few words of disapproval should be enough for a well-trained dog. But if a dog isn't well trained he is a nuisance to you and everyone else.

It is easy to teach a young dog to obey; an older one requires more patience and takes longer, so it's wisest to persevere when —or her—to effect an introduction? That is really the only thing you can do. I expect you have thought of writing to her, but letters from an unknown young man may well go unanswered; and even if she did agree to meet you, a friendship started on such unconventional lines would be sure to be highly disapproved of by her family.

Brown Eyes—Grow a moustache by all means, if you think she favours them—and why not buy a cheap little Austin yourself?

Letters should be addressed to Helen, c/o The Sunday Herald, Wyndham Street, Hong Kong.

ATHLETIC AGAIN SUCCEED

FAST ENCOUNTER WITH EAST LANCES.

TWO VALUABLE POINTS

EXHILARATING and thrilling football was the order of the day when the East Lanes. and Chinese Athletic engaged in a First Division encounter at Causeway Bay yesterday, the latter team gaining a meritorious, if narrow, victory by the odd goal in three.

The Athletic, in an endeavour to consolidate their position as potential runners-up, were on their toes throughout and never relaxed the fast, penetrative type of football with which they opened out the game. They found themselves up against worthy opposition, a team who was just as determined to capture the spoils, and the large assembly of "fans" gathered in the ground, were treated to a most entertaining game of football.

GOSANO BROS. ON FORM

Stonecutters Lose By Lone Goal

A weakened Recreio team were fortunate to secure both points in their First Division clash against Stonecutters R.A. at King's Park yesterday. Bertie Gosano scoring the only goal of the match less than a minute from full time.

Both Gosanos played at the top of their form and with a little more support from the right wing Bertie might have made the victory more decisive. Both the full-backs, Marques and Bowen, also played excellently covering the goalkeeper well on the many occasions when their charge was threatened.

For the losers Hall played a wonderful game in goal. On yesterday's display it would be hard to find a better 'keeper in the Colony, whilst Gardner, at right-half, played the game of his life and almost won the game for the Gunners with his solo efforts.

EUROPEAN POLICE BEAT RAILWAY

Willerton's "Hat-Trick"

On the Kowloon ground yesterday the European Police beat the Railway R.C. by the odd goal in five.

The Police obtained the opening goal through Willerton, who easily beat Li Heung with a good drive. In the second half the Railway equalised through Fung Kwok Keung, but this was followed by a further goal by Willerton. Soon after, however, Fung Kwok Keung again scored for the Railway, and it was only just before the final whistle that Willerton completed his "hat trick" with a neat header to gain the points for the Police.

RIFLES BEAT RADIO

Boyd And Lindsay Share Four Goals

The Rifles easily accounted for Radio at Causeway Bay yesterday, winning their Second Division encounter by the convincing score of four goals to nil.

The Rifles opened in determined manner and were not long in taking the lead through Boyd. The same player placed them further ahead, and they held this lead at the interval. On the resumption Tavaras (J.M.) almost registered with a high, dropping shot, but the soldiers soon asserted themselves, adding two more goals through Lindsay.

FUSILIERS BEAT R.A.F.

The Fusiliers were successful in their Third Division encounter against the Air Force at King's Park yesterday, winning by 2 goals to 1. MacGregor gave the R.A.F. the lead early in the second half, but Singleton equalised with a "spot" kick. Roberts, however, netted the decider shortly before time.

A. M. Holland	J. Cavanagh	70	108
(Skip)	(Skip)

The Athletic swung the ball about in pleasing manner and were, generally, the model of accuracy in the way they found each other. The intermediate line was their best department, judiciously serving their forwards with splendid passes and lending adequate support to any of the frontal movements without, however, relaxing for a single moment, their grip upon the soldiers' forward line.

Lai Kwok-chiu was the 'star' of the trio and his triangular combination with Tang Kwong-sum and Young Kan-po established a sprightly right wing. Sia Tin-lin was the essence of coolness in his goalkeeping and Mak Shui-hon and Ho Cho-yin met the rapid advances of the opposing forwards with consummate ease. Wong Wing-hong was a thrustful leader who gave the opposing centre-half plenty to do.

For the East Lanes, Swain and Steele were formidable defenders, noticeable for quick tackling and long distance clearances. Sandford was a sprightly forward and Smith shone in the middle-line, but Murphy, on the right wing, was below form and fumbled several chances.

Midway through the initial half, the Athletic took the lead with a great goal by Young Kan-po, who, eluding Steele, crashed a powerful shot against the underside of the bar. Williams being unable to catch the rebound. Fifteen minutes after the change of ends Sandford tapped a pass from Griffin past the Athletic 'keeper to level the score, but 10 minutes later Wong Wing-hong again placed the Athletic in front.

East Lanes:—Williams; Swain, Steele; Cox, Lawton, Smith; Murphy, Sandford, Gorman, Ekersley and Griffin.

LIGA SURPRISE

East Lanes. Take Game Too Casually

In the Third Division encounter on the Chatham Road ground yesterday Liga Portuguese defeated the East Lanes, by 2 goals to 1.

The East Lanes appeared to take the game casually and Liga, taking advantage of their mistakes, especially in defence, scored two quick goals through Santos and Elarte.

After the resumption, the East Lanes reduced the arrears through Scullion.

12 FOR ENGINEERS

Recreio Score First And Then Collapse

In their Second Division encounter yesterday at Chatham Road, the Engineers overwhelmed Recreio by 12 goals to 3 after Recreio had surprisingly scored the first goal.

Goals were scored by the following: the Engineers:—Darby (8), Howlett (6) and Boyling, while Recreio replied through Sequero, Costa and Figuerado.

South China "A" will be at full strength for this clash, while the Portuguese will also be fielding their best.

PLUCKY LYEMUN

Champions Given Fright

GUNNERS LEAD AFTER GOALLESS FIRST HALF

In the First Division soccer game at Sookunpoo yesterday afternoon between South China "A" and Lyemun much praise is due to the Gunners for the manner in which they played against such formidable rivals, and the fact that they emerged losers by 3 goals to 1 would hardly lead one to imagine that for three-quarters of the game they not only held the Chinese champions but gave them many frights in the bargain.

Over-confidence on the part of South China saw them make the great error of not exerting themselves and, taking advantage of this, the Gunners played up spiritedly. Had they possessed forwards who could shoot they would undoubtedly have been three goals up in the first 15 minutes!

For some reason, Lee Wei-tong was starved throughout.

When the teams crossed over, with the score sheet blank, it looked to be anybody's game.

Good work by Boyle, who, incidentally, figured prominently throughout, carried the ball into the Chinese territory, where Tom Kong-pak was penalised for using his elbow against Morton.

From the kick Morton placed the ball well out of the reach of Chui Siu-hong to give the Gunners the lead!

Spurred into action by this reverse, South China, equalised through Tam Kong-pak, who beat Durham with a fast rising shot to the top of the net from a free kick taken by Lee Wei-tong, and after that the R.A. fell away sadly and the smooth, machine-like movements initiated by Lee Wei-tong resulted in Lee netting a splendid goal, which was followed by one by Ip Pak-wah.

DEMORALISED BY EARLY GOALS

HOME TEAM'S ATTACK AT THEIR BEST

G. WHITE SCORES DECIDER

SWEEPING changes in the composition of the Police eleven resulted in Kowloon snatching the points by the odd goal in five on their own ground yesterday.

Despite the fact that they were playing against a depleted side, Kowloon were full value for their two points, and had the forwards received a little more support from the wing-halves the margin in their favour would have been greater. The second half was a triumph for the Kowloon attack, and it was not until 10 minutes from the end that the Police quintet came into the picture.

Kowloon settled down quickly and within five minutes of the start were two goals to the good, first Honnibal executing a brilliant run down the wing to beat the advancing McHardy and then G. White increasing the lead with a neat effort from a corner kick taken by Honnibal.

These surprise goals completely upset the calculations of the Police for a while, but after D. Knox had forced McHardy to make a splendid save, Brooks was responsible for reducing the lead for the Police, making a speedy run from the half-way line which ended with Everest deflecting the ball into his own net.

This success spurred the Police to further efforts, and Boyes, the Kowloon 'keeper, came very much into the limelight at this juncture of the game, stopping two "hot" drives from Johnson in stylish manner. After Stevens had missed narrowly, Johnson was allowed to go through from an obviously off-side position and score the equaliser for the Police, and this appeared to discourage their opponents, resulting in the quality of the football deteriorating. The change of ends saw a sprightly Kowloon attack again on their toes and after several fierce onslaughts on McHardy's charge G. White played them in the lead with a super "header" following a scrummage from a corner by Honnibal.

Police:—McHardy; Blackburn, C. Pile; North, Brittain, Parker; Williams, Johnston, Stevens, Morrison and Brooks.

Kowloon:—Boyes; Everest, Eastman; Roberts, Blise, Boyd; K. Knox, G. White, D. Knox, V. White, and Honnibal.

EASTERN ROUTED

South China Forwards On The Mark

Following an interesting display of football in their Second Division encounter at Caroline Hill yesterday, South China claimed both points against Eastern by 4 goals to 1.

Kam Sik-wai opened the scoring for South China with a long shot which completely baffled Ip Yiu-tok and immediately afterwards Li Wing-on netted from a penalty kick to place South China further ahead. A few minutes after the opening of the second half Ip Koon-ling scored with an excellent shot from long range, and not long after Li Wing-on netted again for South China, following a goalmouth melee.

Cheng Sui-hong, shortly before the final whistle, netted Eastern's only goal.

SAINTS DISAPPOINT

A large crowd was disappointed at Prince Edward Road yesterday afternoon, when, owing to some misunderstanding, only two of the St. Joseph's team arrived for their first Division match against the Fusiliers. After waiting for a considerable period, the referee had to call the game off.

MATCH CALLED OFF

The Third Division soccer fixture between St. Joseph's and the Medicals, scheduled to be played on the Valley ground yesterday, had to be abandoned owing to the non-appearance of the St. Joseph's eleven.

NAVY TOO GOOD FOR E. LANCES.

Gould Scores Two And Spencer One

The Navy continued in winning vein at Sookunpoo yesterday when they beat the East Lanes, by three goals without reply in the Second Division.

The first goal came from a perfectly taken flag kick by Anstias, which Spencer headed through after five minutes. On crossing over, the Navy backs were subjected to a severe test, but came through with honours. The Navy's second goal came from Gould, who ran in and netted from a free kick by Moss, and their third, which was the best of the game, was scored by the same player, who cleverly hooked the ball over his head into the net.

NAVY SECURE POINTS

SOUTH CHINA "B" BEATEN

Strenuous but uninspiring football was witnessed at Caroline Hill yesterday where the Navy proved too good for South China "B", emerging victors by 4 goals to 2 in their premier division soccer clash.

South China attacked strongly and Ho Ka-keung had very hard luck with a header which glanced over the bar. A few minutes after the commencement, however, Chuk Shok-kam netted with a fast shot to open the scoring for South China. Hayman should have saved this one, the ball passing between his legs.

From the replacement the Navy forwards made quick work of the equaliser, McLeod forcing the ball past Pau Ka-ping following a melee 10 yards out.

Following a melee 15 yards from the Chinese goalmouth Crawford placed the Navy ahead with an excellently timed shot, but a fine bout of short-passing between the centre and inside forward saw Ng Po-ku equalise with an unstoppable shot.

In the second half McLeod, who showed fine form, placed the Navy ahead after working hard for an opening and beating three opponents in midfield. Soon after McLeod again scored netting in fine style from 10 yards out with Pau Ka-ping unsighted.

RIFLES WELL BEATEN

Chinese Police Win

Although enjoying most of the play territorially, the Rifles were beaten by 4 goals to 1 in their Third Division soccer encounter against the Chinese Police on the Railway ground yesterday.

The Police opened the scoring when Wong Man-wai crossed the ball for Chan Wing-kan to give Ingall no chance, but, the Rifles equalised soon afterwards from a penalty by Gedney. Chan Wing-kan, however, netted three other goals for the Police.

TEST FOR I.R.C. AT SOOKUNPOO

Needle Game With
R.A.S.C.

LEAGUE TITLE MAY BE DECIDED THIS AFTERNOON

A very important League cricket fixture in the second division will be played at Sookunpoo this afternoon when the Indian Recreation Club meet the R.A.S.C. in their last match of the season.

The Indians will be holding their best possible team for to-day's game and, providing their bowling is handled judiciously, they ought to be able to force a draw at least. Much, however, will depend on whether they will be able to get Capt. L. J. Welch out cheaply enough, and, as in most cases, the winning of the toss should play a big part in this game.

Kowloon Cricket Club are now indulging in a series of what might be classed "holiday matches" and following their game against the Army last Sunday they will be meeting a U.S.R.C. side to-day.

TSUI BROTHERS WIN TITLE

Hung And Ho Lose
C.R.C. Final

Tsui Wai-pui and Tsui Yan-pui, who caused a sensation by eliminating the Rumjahn cousins in the Colony Lawn Tennis Doubles Championship last Monday, won the Chinese Recreation Club title yesterday when they defeated W. C. Hung and Ho Ka-lau, an inter-club combination, by 8-6, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Tsui Wai-pui and Hung were the outstanding players on view. The Tsui brothers beat Leo Wai-long and Luk Ding-cheong, the 1935 holders, in straight sets in an earlier round.

Marina Ground

The Kowloon Indians' Tennis Club, champions of the Mamak Hockey Tournament, will meet the Police in the only First Division game to-day, on the Marina ground at 10.30 a.m.

As the result of the former's defeat at the hands of the Royal Engineers during the week, the 1935-6 championship is still very open. Both these teams are in the running for the honour and a good game should be witnessed. In their first meeting the Police won by the only goal scored.

ARTFULNESS OF FASHIONS

An Expert On Change In Women's Dress

Capture Of The Male The Eternal Object

(By MARGARET LANE)

EVERY now and then that old argument revives between women — whether they dress to please men or purely to please themselves. Both schools of thought have their supporters, and there are countless women who will tell you (and who genuinely believe) that they adopt fashions without caring a row of pins what men think about them, or simply because they are fond of dress for its own sake.

Alas! for these candid but nevertheless deluded creatures, an expert has now answered that question with disturbing finality, and answered it against them.

There is not, says he, a single ribbon or feather, not a puffed sleeve, or a stiffened bodice, not an eye-vail or a row of buttons worn by woman that is not part and parcel of an undying single deadliness of purpose, the top-dressing of a basic instinct that goes far deeper than she knows.

The whole aim, says Dr. Willett Cunningham in his new explanation of the dress and behaviour of our mothers and grandmothers, of every changing style of women's dress is to attract and capture, to subdue to her eternal purpose intractable and indispensable man.

Even The Bustle
The crinoline was no freakish accident, and even the bustle had its reason. We never even change our style of hairdressing except in response to the urgent promptings of a fierce old primitive need.

Dr. Willett Cunningham possesses what is probably the finest single collection of 19th-century women's clothing in the country. In the museum-store room built to house them hang the transparent classical muslins of the Regency, the monstrous cage-supported crinolines of the sentimental decades, the bustles, false hair, and "figure improvers" of the upholstered era, the sequins and kid gloves, the long corsets and aesthetic draperies of the 'nineties.

Armed with so much concrete evidence of the way in which women have from decade to decade seriously changed their appearance and purposefully altered even the shape of their bodies, Dr. Cunningham has taken his psychologist's courage in both hands and written — though not without misgiving — a minute explanation of the apparently freakish strangenesses of women's fashions. "As a nation," he says, "we dislike being explained, and it is specially dangerous to explain the feminine mind; there is always the risk of being understood."

Understood, then, with a wit and sympathy nearly always affectionate and only occasionally mocking, that nebulous creature the "typical woman" is paraded before us through all the decades of the last century with her changing physical and mental attitudes one by one explained.

Here is the Regency girl, product of a nation's weariness from years of war, with her exhibitionism, her frank talk, her dresses leaving so little to the imagination — how oddly she recalls the hard brightness of the disillusioned 'twenties of our own century! "What delicate mind," complains a critic of 1806, "can view with unconcern the nude we meet everywhere?"

"The arm, once covered, is now bared nearly to the shoulder, the bosom shamefully exposed; and far more the ankle."

It Palled
But frank display of physical charm began to pall. The man of the period became blasé. Arms, bosoms, ankles left him cold, and a prompt change of feminine tactics — (faint prophetic echo of the 1930s?) — made veils and modesty fashionable, and, with clothes that mysteriously concealed rather than exhibited, ushered in the romantic era. Woman began to hedge herself about with romantic disguises and the sentimental crinoline was born.

"During the first half of the century women's position underwent a profound development. In 1830 she had been almost a servant; by 1850 she had become the Perfect Lady. In the 'twenties she was half-way."

"It was no longer good manners for the man to behave towards her with the genial coarseness of the 18th century, but it was still the mode to regard her as fair game. He granted her favours, but no rights. By the middle of the century she was to exchange favours for privileges; the rights were still more distant."

Ringslets and crinolines, however, could not serve woman's mating purpose indefinitely, and as through the 'sixties and 'seventies changing economic conditions and the increased cost of living put early and certain marriage farther and farther out of reach, she changed her tactics and her shape once again.

Coy Disguise

The barrier which the crinoline had been between man and herself she swept boldly behind her, stopping ardently to meet him with its discarded fullness packed exuberantly behind her as a bustle.

In a world where the numbers of unmarried daughters increased every year, woman's mating and mothering instincts became a nuisance, and soon — the 'seventies being a respectable and consoling decade — she found it expedient to disguise them.

She disguised her person with corseting, padding, and braid — it was even "the fashion, in refined households, for common objects to be ornamented into strange forms; the dinner bell must be draped like a statuette; the match-box should look like a castle; the waste-paper basket is hung with frills, and the thermometer encased in scroll-work." The great problem of the woman of the last century was to try to adapt her sex instincts to the rigid conventions of social life. The problem of the 20th century woman, Dr. Cunningham once told me, is trying to change the conditions of life to suit that powerful instinct.

What Of Us?

It is because I would so much like to know what success he thinks us likely to have in the 20th century attempt at readjustment that I am disappointed to find Dr. Cunningham's explanation of woman come to something suspiciously like a happy ending about the time of the Diamond Jubilee.

"She could survey the past century with a good deal of satisfaction; favours, privileges, rights, she had wrung them all from her ancient foe, and now, armed with new weapons and still possessed of the old, she could, in the new century, perhaps win fresh victories over him."

Unfair Dr. Cunningham, to leave the whole matter trembling on that provocative "perhaps" or is it a half-spoken promise to explain one day with the same shrewd sympathy the clamorous first decades, the shrill, defiant 'twenties, the disreputable 'thirties, the yet unborn but surely to be romantic 'forties of the present feminine century?

Rub its little chest and throat with this soothing, cooling and healing preparation and soon baby will close its eyes to restful and refreshing slumber and awake in the morning cooling and laughing—the cold has gone.

Headful mothers always have MENTHOLATUM handy as a first aid for burns, cuts, bruises, insect bites, skin eruptions and many other every day ailments.

Under study on the genuine MENTHOLATUM.

MENTHOLATUM

THE departure of Bishop Hall—who carried with him all our best wishes for a happy and restful holiday—robs us of the chance of any more of his thought-provoking speeches on public questions for some time to come, but there was enough in the last to keep us going for some months, if it were possible to give a column or two to comment on a selection of his casual aphorisms. One of these on which a good deal might be said was that he would like the world's problems to be transferred from the politicians to the diplomats. Nowhere was this tradition stronger than in England, where it is on record that Lord Morley protested against the explanation given by Sir Edward Grey in the crisis of July, 1914, on the ground that his colleagues would be likely to chatter to their wives. The popular view, however, is that as the system of secrecy produced a bigger mess than had ever happened before there was abundant reason for a change. The Diplomatic Service is still gasping from the realisation that recently two Foreign Secretaries have been forced by public opinion to resign, though their only sin was to concur with their professional advisers. In England it often happens that big developments are built on precedents that pass almost unnoticed, and certainly unassessed at their proper importance.

HERR VON RIBBENTROP

It will not happen either in England or elsewhere that any obvious or avowed change will take place, but diplomacy is an art which aims at definite results, and the manner of securing them does alter from one generation to another. The German Memorandum handed by Herr von Ribbentrop to Mr. Anthony Eden the other day was a definite resurgence of the diplomatic tradition, and the good reception it has had everywhere, as compared with the anxiety caused by speeches of the Fuehrer and M. Sarraut, the French Premier, shows that the diplomatist still has his uses. Moreover the programme of international appeasement outlined in the 17 items is a bundle of intricate chains of interests that only the diplomatist would have either the knowledge or the patience and the time to disentangle. Even the Memorandum itself reserves the colonial question by expressing the hope that it can be dealt with in the future through the ordinary diplomatic channels. If these channels are kept as busy as a nullo after a rainstorm it will still be at least 10 years before all the interested parties have been consulted and come to a mutually satisfactory compromise. Seventeen years is quite long enough for changes that make a situation entirely different from that obtaining when Germany staked her overseas possessions in confidence that after winning the land campaign she could compel a restoration in the terms of peace.

THE CLAIM FOR COLONIES

THERE is much sound sense in the contention set forth in the Memorandum that the issue should not be submitted to the Hague Tribunal because they are political and not legal. The claim for colonies as a source of raw materials narrows down to the African territories, for no others were producers on any scale that would make any difference. That reduces the legal argument to the simple question whether conquest sets up a good ground of annexation; for not even the Italian attack on Abyssinia is a clearer case of bare military conquest than the German annexations. International law, as agreed upon by the competitors for African land during the last century, recognized two grounds only for annexation or retention of territory—conquest and effective occupation. There would be no legal argument which could prove that a principle recognized as valid before 1914 should suddenly become invalid at that date. In fact the less Germany appeals to precedents the better chance would she have of urging "political" appeals. Even these would be difficult except on motives concerned with Europe and not Africa.

WHOM CHOOSE YE? THE CHOICE—CHRIST OR BARABBAS THE SAME CHOICE IS GIVEN US TO-DAY

(By The Rev. J. N. LEWIS BRYAN)

THE crowd that stood before the judgment seat of Pilate were like a flock of sheep. Guiled and easily moved by their influential and powerful leaders they acted unreasonably, like driven animals. The herd instinct is so deeply rooted that nothing, save sound education and the grace of God can move it.

It was Passover time, the great festival of the Jews' national deliverance. They were groaning under the heel of their oppressors. They were also on the tip-toe of expectation, awaiting the coming of their Messiah, so long foretold in the Sacred Writings. They no doubt scented some deep-laid conspiracy on the part of their priests towards emancipation, which moved them to shout for the release of Barabbas when they were given the choice between him and Jesus of Nazareth.

When Pilate reminded them of the ancient custom of releasing a prisoner at the Feast, little did he dream that he was playing with fire. In a moment the tables were turned against him. Back came the answer from the seething ranks of the mob: "Not this man, but Barabbas."

The cry must have fallen upon his ears like the rumbling of an earthquake. He had played for high stakes and had lost. Perplexed and dismayed, he delivered Jesus to their will. The crowd, that day, in choosing Barabbas, the revolutionary of the sword, justified the saying of the meek-spirited revolutionary whom they rejected, "They that take the sword shall perish by the sword."

Comparisons
Let us for a moment compare these two revolutionaries.
1. Barabbas, the revolutionary of the sword. He was the son of a rabbi, an aristocrat, a patriot of the pro-Judean party. He was always a foreign and disconcerting element. Our own policy was to make South Africa, where Europeans can live and rear families in health and vigour, the base of an extension northwards up the centre of the continent. The German policy was to get settlements on the East and West coast, and then join them by a band of "hinterland" that would shut off all such expansion, to use the racial antagonism of the Boers against us by stirring up as much internal rivalry as possible, and to train strong armies of native askaris that would leave them the masters of the situation. The whole position has been altered by the growth of the South African Union into a new Power which has men of its own blood settled in the interior up to the borders of the Sudan, and with every motive to avoid any repetition of the menace to further settlement and trade. Moreover the "askari menace" is much better recognized than it was. It was the Boer leaders that got inserted into the Treaty of Versailles a prohibition of the military training of the native "except as police." The word "police" is elastic, and the white resident of Africa is suspicious of paper prohibitions. Why should they sacrifice complete security for a constant danger?

MINERAL CONTROL

THERE are minerals in the Tanganyika Territory, but they are owned by Germans. At the time of the war there was only one good proposition known, far inland, at a place called Sekone. Our administration not only protected the private rights, but paid the wages of the Arab mechanics to keep the machinery in oil. At the end of the war the mine was restored. The reef is now supposed to run at least 25 miles eastwards. Why does one not see the shares quoted on the London market? Because they are dealt in at Berlin. On the other hand English mineral holdings in the German South-West Protectorate were confiscated for non-payment of fees, the payment of which was possible. Diplomats go into these little matters, and there will be plenty to keep them busy.

the darling of the people, who saw in this man and his riots for the law a great deliverer from the hated yoke of Rome. What cared they for bloodshed so long as it was Gentile blood? That "the end justifies the means" was their motto. Barabbas for his pro-Judean zeal was in prison and to them he was a martyr, suffering for his principles which he had carried into practice. He was the hero of the hour, who had dared to trample on the Roman eagle and who would hoist in its place the Judean standard of the lion.

By their persistent cry for his liberation they had set their seal as a nation to the policy which he espoused—"Might is Right." And how attractive that policy has ever been! What glittering prizes it holds out to the strong! Nevertheless it is a negation of the principle of meekness which alone has the promise of earth possession. One would have thought that the nations of the world, with their war-wounds scarcely healed, would have seen the utter hollowness of this principle! Yet what do we find? One nation embarked upon a war of aggression, and Europe again armed to the teeth. Have we to learn afresh the lesson that self-assertion is merely self-destruction in individual, national and international life?

The pro-Judean party found it so, a few years later, when Jerusalem was laid in ruins and her people put to the sword. We have seen it in the world cataclysm. If human society is ever to be rebuilt upon a sure and solid foundation, it will never be done on the principles of Barabbas.

The Cry Of The World

An awakened world to-day is clamouring for more ideal conditions in our midst. Bitter and insistent its cry breaks in upon us, again and again. Now it comes from the steel and iron foundries, now from the miner working in the gloom of the bowels of the earth. It is ever the same demand. Great concessions have already been granted, but the problem is still acute. It bristles with difficulties, and sometime we are inclined to brush it aside with impatience as insoluble.

Plato stated an eternal truth when he said that "All fine things are difficult." It would be a red-letter day in the world's history if, overthrowing everything that savoured of "Might is Right," the leaders and the workers got together to find some solution, based on the gospel of Jesus Christ.

2. Christ, the revolutionary of love.

He too was a revolutionary, but He deprecated force of any sort. Conscious of His deity, and the depth of the doctrine which was from above, He knew that the Kingdom would never come through force and violence. Slowly but surely, by a process of peaceful penetration it would find its way into the hearts of men of peace and goodwill. It would revolutionise their lives. It would revolutionise society. It would revolutionise the world.

Christ The Conqueror

Barabbas pales before Christ as a revolutionary. When the mob rejected Him, how little did they know that He would yet live to conquer the world and that His leadership would be eternal! Yet Christianity has been called the "dope" of the people—and that means that it is not revolutionary. Far from being a dope it has awakened the conscience of humanity to hold the way of Barabbas in horror. Christianity is the only religion capable of destruction. If it has to pull down, it lays the foundation of a more sure and solid edifice.

That scene under the Judean sky takes place again and again when nations and individuals are called upon to make some great choice. The mob, coached by its modern leaders, choose after the lust of their eyes. The revolutionary of blood was far more attractive than the other, wearing a crown of thorns. They chose blood-red Christ!

HOW TO TAKE 'ASPRO' FOR DENGUE

AT the first signs of the dreaded Dengue don't procrastinate:—

Take two to three 'ASPRO' tablets every two hours until the Fever abates and the pain ceases. 'ASPRO' is the greatest Fever Antidote ever given to the world. No other medicine has its anti-pyretic, anti-periodic and anti-germinal propensities after ingestion in the system. 'ASPRO' is far more effective than quinine and there are no harmful after effects. Make certain that 'ASPRO' is always in the home ready for any emergency.

Nothing Equals 'ASPRO' for Dengue & Pneumatism

Dear Sir,
Selby's Estate,
Ingham, North Queensland.
Having used your 'ASPRO' for Dengue Fever and also for Rheumatism, I have found that nothing equals 'ASPRO' for relief from pain.
I was very bad the last week in December, and could not sleep with Rheumatism in my feet. A neighbour called to see me, and she told me that 'ASPRO' Tablets were good for pain. I straightaway sent to the chemist for a box of 'ASPRO', and I can truthfully say that I was surprised at the relief I got after taking the first two 'ASPRO' Tablets—they took away the pain and I could sleep of a night. I took three Tablets a night for four nights, and they relieved me, and now I am as well as ever.
Yours faithfully,

'ASPRO' Works Wonders for Malaria

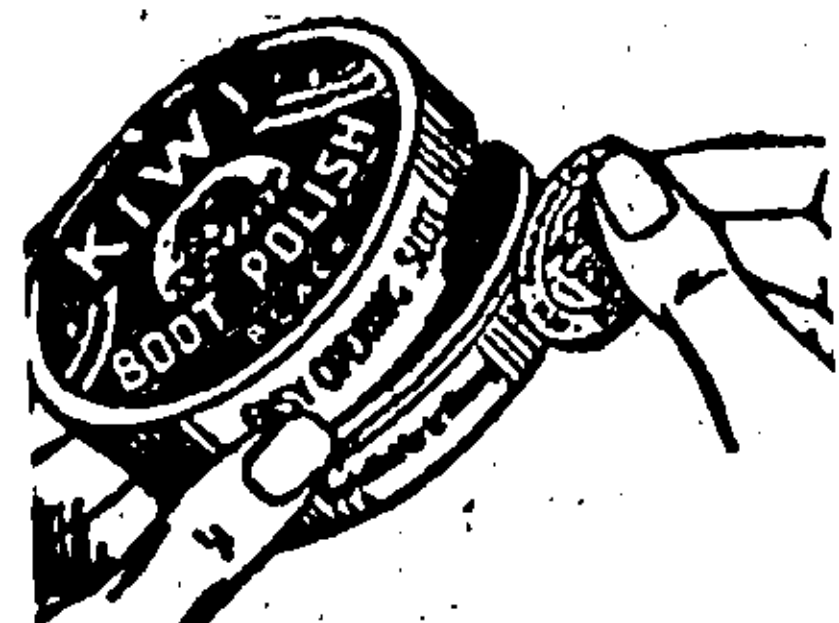

Gladstone, Queensland.
Gladstone is up to me to let you know how I have benefited by 'ASPRO'. Ever since 1910 I have been a sufferer from MALARIA FEVER, having contracted same in Rhodesia, German East Africa and the Straits Settlements.
I came to Australia from the latter country five years ago, and for the first two and a half years was continually in hospital in Victoria and New South Wales. On arriving in Queensland, a friend advised me to try 'ASPRO'. I did, and it has worked wonders. I still continue to get slight attacks of Malaria, but if I take a few 'ASPRO' Tablets and hot lemon water, and rest a few hours, I am quite O.K. again. I wouldn't be without 'ASPRO' for anything and always carry a box about with me. I can thoroughly recommend them to anyone suffering from the same malady.
This testimonial is unaltered and you may make any use of it that you think fit.
Yours faithfully,
L. J. HAYCOCK

The R.M.S. Franconia, of the Cunard White Star Line, which is on a world cruise, arrived in Hong Kong yesterday morning with 308 passengers and will remain here until to-morrow evening, when the vessel will sail for Shanghai.

This is her first visit to Hong Kong in over four years and 10 nationalities are represented on board. Among the prominent passengers are Mr. Winton C. Hoch, chief cameraman, and Mr. Fred H. Detmers, assistant cameraman, of FitzPatrick Travel Talks Inc., a subsidiary company of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, who will make a Travelogue of Hong Kong in the new process Technicolor, for release through M.G.M.

SCENES OF CANTON

So far they have taken films of Rio de Janeiro, South African ports, India, various places in the Malay States and Bali and Bangkok. They will also probably "shoot" scenes in Canton.

If the weather does not clear up sufficiently within the next day or so, the party intend staying on until such time as their film can be completed.

It was their original intention to leave Hong Kong within the next three days for Honolulu, where they hoped to join Mr. FitzPatrick, the head of the Company, who was also a passenger by the Franconia to Singapore, where he disembarked for business reasons.

Mr. FitzPatrick intends joining one of the "Flying Clippers" at Manila for Honolulu.

PROMINENT PASSENGERS

Among the other prominent passengers on board are Col. W. A. E. Bulkeley, who is connected with the Aetna Life Assurance Corporation, and Mrs. Bulkeley, Countess de Guyencourt and Miss Guyencourt; Mrs. Paul J. Kalman, who is one of St. Paul's, Minnesota, socially prominent hostesses, Mrs. Bertha W. Underwood, widow of Senator Underwood, and Mr. Wheeler Dryden, who is Charlie Chaplin's step-brother.

Mr. Frank E. Buck, famous producer of jungle pictures and notably "Bring 'Em Back Alive," who is reputed to be on board accompanied by Mrs. Buck, was not to be found. He is now working on another film called "Gangway."

Something Light By
The A.D.C.

SPARKLING COMEDY TO BE PRESENTED

By way of a complete contrast to their last production, "Musical Chairs," the A.D.C. are offering Hong Kong theatre-goers a comedy which, for sheer humour, might almost be described as a farce. "Lovers' Leap," by Philip Johnson, is included in the volume "Famous Plays of 1934-1935," having been first produced in Liverpool in June 1934, and subsequently in London in October of that year, when it enjoyed a deservedly successful run. The cleverness of the play lies not so much in its theme as in the wit and sparkle of its dialogue, and in its excellent acting qualities, qualities of which our local amateurs promise to take full advantage.

The play will be presented at the China Fleet Club Theatre on the nights of April 15, 16, 17 and 18, at 9.15 p.m.

Favourites in Cast

The cast includes Helen Prior, Myrtle Brown, Jane Weller, Donald MacAllister, and E. G. Smith-Wright, who is producing the play.

"Lovers' Leap" does not pretend to be a serious play—it presents no problem and it does not even set out to be entirely credible. It has, however, all the requisites of a first-class and thoroughly laughable comedy, and, in these days of uncertainty and pessimism, the A.D.C. are to be congratulated on the selection of something which will draw no tears from the audience, unless they be tears of mirth.

Booking is now open at the Anderson Music Co.

CONTROL OVER EXPORTS
OF CAPITAL

Berlin, Yesterday.
The reports of the possible devaluation of the German currency are discounted by the "Deutsche Volkswirt," which also rejects the suggestion that Dr. Schacht's resignation is impending, from which it is inferred that the recent renewed crisis between Dr. Schacht and the more extreme Nazis has been settled for the time being.

The article declares that Germany does not intend changing her economic plan or abandoning her control of Germany's foreign trade currencies received for exports, as continuation of the control of Germany's foreign trade is absolutely essential.

It is learned in this connection that it is most improbable that Germany will give up control over the exports of capital. Any concessions in this direction would undoubtedly lead to the emigration of Jewish capital in Germany, which is estimated to amount to about £1,000,000,000.—Reuter.

Paris, Yesterday.
Heavy sales of French rentes have developed, owing to the renewal of the franc scare. There was a flurry on the exchange market yesterday, a feature of which was the strong demand for sterling, which rose to 75.30 at one time. There is talk of the possibility of a further rise in the bank rate to-day.

The development is attributed in some quarters to a revival of bear speculation.—Reuter.

(3) BEER & THE ANCIENT JEWS
1,000 B.C.

The Jews escaped from Egypt about 1200 B.C. During the time they lived there, they acquired a thorough knowledge of brewing beer as practiced in Egypt. While wandering for forty years before their conquest of Canaan, they continued to make and brew beer whenever they found it possible to encamp for prolonged periods. The vessels for brewing, consisting of urns and wide jars, and the grains obtained in trading, were of a nature that could be taken with them in their travels. Like the Egyptians, they made their beer from barley, malt, bread and wheat bread prepared with sour dough which was baked on the outside only. Aromatic flavouring for the beer was more generally used by the Jews than by their contemporaries.

So the great tradition has gone on, each age adding fresh experience and new knowledge, and now to-day, H.B. BEER, a worthy successor of the renowned brews of the past, is being produced in Hongkong in a Brewing which is a model of up-to-date equipment and scientific and hygienic method.

The Boat Race

NOTHING has surprised men of the generation which would be classed as "on the old side" who after long exile have returned to the Old Country for a visit than the sudden outcry a few years back against "the old school tie." The great boat race has always been the big festival of all that the old school tie stands for, and certainly in the old days it was done without any self-consciousness and without offence. It was a means of recognition, a slightly sentimental attempt to pretend that "the years that the locust hath eaten" were but as yesterday, and that only the claims of business prevented the wearer from engaging once more in a struggle from which he would probably have emerged only as a corpse.

There can be no doubt that that 20 minutes of effort is as concentrated a test of physique as any man is called upon to undergo. A man must be something of a "passenger" unless he feels at quite an early stage that the back of the man in front of him has become merely a mechanical mist that compels him to commit a particularly uncomfortable kind of recurrent suicide. Then comes the second wind, and for a time the impression is that the pains of dissolution are over, and that it would be possible to keep going for hours. Ten minutes later that hallucination has gone too, and the only thing is to cherish a wild hope that the next stroke will be the last. Before the last stroke comes he has ceased to hope or care for anything at all. He is content if he can begin again to breathe.

The college boat in a pre-eminent degree represents a duty to the little community which is represented by it, and it is an exacting honour to receive the colours. It means several hours of every afternoon of the academic year that might have been given to some sport which could be carried on elsewhere, like cricket and tennis. It means complete impossibility of such rambles through the beautiful countryside as are recorded week by week in our "Nature Notes." And it is quite possible that even the 100 per cent. "wet bob" would occasionally sigh in vain for a chance "to sport with Amariyllis in the shade, or with the tangles of Nereid's hair." Even the more intellectual joys of debate and society are often ruled out by a healthy fatigue that suggests the charms of an armchair and a blazing fire and an Edgar Wallace.

But that somewhat portentous list of possibilities does not exhaust the rambling reflections of middle-age. The doctors, who always have a croak against anything that the natural man thoroughly enjoys, from "tennis elbow" to a broken neck in the hunting field, have been murmuring something about overstrain of the heart and its effects in later life. That now and then a man we happened to know had to go to Davos or some other place where life meant only existence we could not fail to note, but this was dismissed as a bit of bad luck, or perhaps as only something that was bound to happen anyhow. The old school tie, and occasional chance meetings with those who wear it, has always had the effect of keeping the wearers up to date as to the fates of those who used to wear it. No normal man is callous to the joy of greeting, amid all the acquaintances that he treats with formal respect, the old chum whom he can hail with some contemptuous nickname that he had never thought of for years. Anyhow, it was possible to look forward to meeting quite a good proportion of the footballers and ramblers, even of the erst despised tennis-men, but the rowing men? Scarcely one.

There is a good old maxim of the towing path that "a race is never lost till it is won," and the sporting prophets are no more infallible than any other prophets. Writing before the event it is not merely prudent, but almost necessary to keep a judicial mind. The toss of the coin on a gusty day, a broken oar, a sudden crab, a cracked footboard—these and many other little calamities may make skill and muscle of no avail, and anyhow the critics, like our racing tipsters, contradict each other, and hedge. Whatever the result they will be able to say that they indicated how probable it was. Nor can we on this occasion don the garments of Mr. Pecksniff and say "may the best crew win." There are only the two colours, and according to our wear we say "may the right crew win."

Hong Kong Personalities

MR. E. F. SELK

This is the eighty-seventh of the exclusive series of sketches of leading Colony residents by Mr. A. S. Konya, the talented Hungarian artist.

OUR Personality this week is Mr. Ernest Frederick Selk, Assistant Secretary of the European Y.M.C.A.

Born in Fremantle, Western Australia, in 1901, Mr. Selk, though only 35 years of age, has crowded more in the way of change and adventure into the last 18 years than falls to the lot of most men of similar age.

Entering the Naval College, Jervis Bay, New South Wales, at the age of 13, he left in 1918 and joined the Royal Navy as a midshipman, serving on the battleship Revenge during the last months of the Great War. He has a gift of the scuttling of the surrendered German fleet at Scapa Flow. He next, on the Revenge, saw service in the Mediterranean and Black Sea in the operations with the Greeks against the Nationalist Turks, being by this time promoted sub-lieutenant. Then followed a period, in late 1921, of service in the destroyer Tetrarch on the south coast of Ireland during the rebellion.

After a course at the Staff College, Greenwich, in navigation and a torpedo course at Portsmouth he was promoted lieutenant, but in late 1922, at his own request, he resigned the Service and returned to Australia, where he quickly obtained an appointment as a resident master in Scott's College, W.A.

During the next five years he served in various civil capacities and then, the itch for adventure once more urging him, he entered the Royal Australian Air Force as a cadet in 1927. In 1929, with the rank of Flying Officer, he left the R.A.A.F. to take up a position as pilot in Guinea Airways Ltd., New Guinea, and spent an adventurous year and a half carrying mail, machinery and stores to the mountain gold-workings in the interior, inaccessible to transport except by air, and taking back the gold won for shipment to Sydney.

A report—as it subsequently proved, unauthorised—in the Australian papers that the Chinese Air Force was prepared to engage foreign pilots on satisfactory terms led him to sever his connection with Guinea Airways Ltd. and to proceed to Shanghai, where, in company with many others, he met with disappointment and, coming to Hong Kong, he settled down to the prosaic job of assistant secretary of the Y.M.C.A. in place of the more interesting and exciting career he had hoped to find in China.

In sports Mr. Selk is an all-round man, with an excellent record in football, cricket, hockey, swimming and diving. In 1918 he played as full-back in the United Services of Australia Rugby team, in Sydney, and did good service in cricket as a "goggy" bowler for the R.A.A.F. While with the R.A.A.F. he also won the 100 yards swimming and diving championships, and last year he was a member of the local civilians' hockey team that defeated the Shanghai Germans.

MORE CONFIDENCE ESSENTIAL

"GERMANY'S PRODIGIOUS REARMAMENT"

DOMINATING FACTOR IN PRESENT INTERNATIONAL SITUATION

London, Yesterday. The Foreign Secretary, in the House of Commons yesterday, said that at the meeting with Herr von Ribbentrop on Thursday he told the German Envoy that the British Government regarded Herr Hitler's proposals as most important and deserving of careful study, but he felt bound to point out, in respect of the interim period for which the British Government had particularly appealed for a contribution, the German Government had not been able to meet them. The difficulty of creating that sense of confidence essential to successful negotiations therefore still remained.

With reference to the undertaking given by the four Locarno Powers at the March 19 conference, to instruct the General Staffs to enter into contact with a view to arranging the technical conditions in which the obligations binding upon the Powers concerned would be carried out in case of unprovoked aggression, Mr. Eden read to the House the text of the letters he had handed to the French and Belgian Ambassadors on Thursday. The letters state that this contact cannot give rise, in respect of other Government, to any political undertaking nor to any obligations regarding the organisation of national defence.

It is understood that the statements of the Dominions were not Staff talks, which Mr. Eden stated would be held in London, may begin next week. Meanwhile in the view of the British Government a pause in diplomatic activity would for the present be valuable.

After Mr. Eden's statement in the Commons the Opposition leader, Major Attlee, asked whether, in view of the fact that there might now be a pause and that the efforts at conciliation might take some time, the Government could not reinforce the sense of security by bringing in the whole of the League Powers and not merely the Locarno Powers. Mr. Eden replied that he felt a great deal of sympathy with that and for his part would welcome any such procedure, if it could be generally agreed upon.

Military Plans
Mr. Lloyd George asked if Mr. Eden could assure the House and country that it was not contemplated to put any of the military plans into operation in the unfortunate event of the failure of these negotiations, unless there was an unprovoked attack by German forces upon Belgium or French soil—an actual invasion of either France or Belgium. Mr. Eden replied: "Yes, Sir."

In reply to a further question, Mr. Eden said that the Government hoped that that out of the present evil good might come. The goal constantly before the British Government was indicated in a section of the draft proposals of March 19, in which the subjects which in due course should be examined by a conference of all the nations called together through the League were set out.

He did not disguise the magnitude of the obstacles which had first to be overcome. The immediate task was to bring to the same conference table nations between whose viewpoints an immense gulf still yawned. He drew attention to the German efforts to propaganda that it was France who had been responsible for the shock to confidence caused by the violation of Locarno.

He cited from Herr Hitler's Cologne speech the passage in which he said: "Treaties will be regarded as sacred only if they have been concluded between equals on equal terms." Never, said Lord Zetland, had there been such treachery of history as this attempt to justify the repudiation of Locarno. That Treaty was the outcome of proposals made by Germany herself, by whom the treaty was fully entered into and freely signed.

FIVE YEARS AGO

(Extracts from the Sunday Herald of April 5, 1931).

Mr. "Benny" Proulx sprung the biggest surprise of the season when he piloted Mrs. Dunbar's Little Beaver to victory in the Commonwealth Handicap "B" Class to pay a win dividend of $360.

South China won the Senior Football Shield when they beat the South Wales Borderers by six clear goals. Lee Wai-tong (3), Leung In-chun, Ip Pak-wah and Chu Kwok-lun were the goal-scorers.

Mr. Cecil Graham Perdue has been appointed a Divisional Superintendent of Police and Director of Criminal Investigation with effect from January 1.

By beating the Army by 3 goals and 3 tries (24 points) to a try (3 points) in the last game of the season the Club have caused the Triangular Rugby Tournament to end in a triple tie. S. J. H. Fox and D. McEellan did well for the Club.

Lord Zetland's Speech

GREAT OBSTACLES TO BE OVERCOME

Lord Zetland, Secretary for India, in a speech at Manchester yesterday, said that the maintenance of peace and the restoration of confidence and security among the nations were prerequisites of the re-establishment of international trade upon which all must now concentrate.

The dominating factor in the international situation was Germany's prodigious programme of rearmament. Until assured that international engagements solemnly entered into would be scrupulously observed, Britain had no option but to arm, not for defence but for defence.

The Government hoped that out of the present evil good might come. The goal constantly before the British Government was indicated in a section of the draft proposals of March 19, in which the subjects which in due course should be examined by a conference of all the nations called together through the League were set out.

He did not disguise the magnitude of the obstacles which had first to be overcome. The immediate task was to bring to the same conference table nations between whose viewpoints an immense gulf still yawned. He drew attention to the German efforts to propaganda that it was France who had been responsible for the shock to confidence caused by the violation of Locarno.

He cited from Herr Hitler's Cologne speech the passage in which he said: "Treaties will be regarded as sacred only if they have been concluded between equals on equal terms." Never, said Lord Zetland, had there been such treachery of history as this attempt to justify the repudiation of Locarno. The Thrill Of Marseilles

THE traveller of to-day may reach Marseilles by way of the sea, as it is fitting that a great port be reached, or he may, without regret, choose to journey there by way of Orange, of glorious story, Avignon the Pontifical, the Roman Nîmes, and imperial Arles.

Not even in Italy does the splendour of ancient Rome speak out more eloquently than here in Provence. He will reach the Etang de Berre, and view from the train window the astonishing spectacle of a great sheet of inland water transformed by a feat of engineering into an auxiliary harbour of Marseilles. He will see also Martigues, day-dreaming in the sun, so quaint, so Provencal that it seems almost a place out of a story-book.

Or, again, he may choose to come over the hill by way of Aix, where old emblazoned houses brood over dreamy squares, and an ancient towered cathedral guards behind shuttered doors its treasures of a thousands years.

Through Olive Groves

The road from Aix to Marseilles runs through a country of olive groves, vineyards and wheat: a fair and pleasant road. But many prefer a longer one: the pilgrims' road, through the forest of St. Baume. He will come at last to Marseilles, the youthful, the laughing city, which 25 centuries have not made old.

Marseilles pulsates to-day with vigour and with purpose as never before in her long existence. Her waters are thronged with an ever-increasing body of ships—ships beyond count. Her 15 miles of quays are alive with busy humanity and the movement of trade. And the panting monsters of the "P. L. M.," racing in from the north and the east and the west, give to her teeming life a quickening and potent spur.

There is a thrill in the air of Marseilles: a thrill of immense achievement and mighty destiny. A thrill which even the blue cloak of night does not damp, but gives added mystery and enchantment to. For here on the golden coast of Southern France night has its marvellous meaning, even as the day.

To stand then under the stars, above the city, drinking in the intoxication and the balm of the night air, is an experience beyond which earth holds not anything more fair. Here and there the sea has lights. Perhaps a great liner, with rows of twinkling port-holes, moves somewhere on it, sending strains of distant music over the water and up the hillside, to make the night's enchantment even more magic still. Maybe the watcher then, when the night seems to listen, and all sound is melody, will feel most truly the genius loci, the spirit of the ages, and the majesty of the sea. The city born of the sea will speak to him softly, and hold him in thrall.

Asia's Population

MAINLY about WOMEN

Rise And Decline In Diet Fads

THE Women's League of Health and Beauty, we read, is becoming a great success in the Colony. Wise are the women who learn to ward off the pounds ahead of time! Usually they wait for a warning; a tuck has to be let out or a dress-fastener moved just a little further along. And then you begin to think of stretching and bending and exercising morning and evening and you buy a skipping-rope for the winter. But even that doesn't seem to solve your problem.

"And," says your true friend to you one day, "what about a little dieting?"

"Oh I've been dieting for ever so long," you declare.

"Taking a little of your diet between meals too, I suppose," she says kindly.

Strange Dishes

We still hear plenty of talk about diets, to be sure. George Bernard Shaw is interviewed, screen stars endorse and dispute, visiting authors are asked their opinion on leafy vegetables versus goat's milk, and we read in the North China Daily News that Fish's Lips with Cream, Feet of Bear (made to order), and Tadpoles with Sago are just the thing.

And still we tolerate—but we cannot be certain. No, we cannot be certain that a fish diet will increase our brains, that onions will cure a cold, that lettuce will put one to sleep or that an apple a day will keep the doctor away. Meanwhile we know that an essential factor in any diet fad is the faith in benefit to be derived.

In the early years of this century Dr. Horace Fletcher found a ready and anxious audience to hear that people were dying off like flies because they did not chew their food enough. However people soon grew bored and restless sitting around chewing; and, besides, food chewed thirty-two times becomes liquid and it did not agree with everybody.

There was a reaction. It became known that the system required roughage. The certainty about this was profound, and roughage and breakfast foods were the housewife's favourites for years.

Then we heard about calories. Everybody knows about counting calories. They were not regarded as a mere unit of heat and only one of many dietary factors to worry about. No, calories kept us alive for years.

The Slimming Craze

With the post-war years raw fruit and vegetables and butter-milk soared into popular favour. We began to fast. The reducing craze was on. It was worldwide. Titled Englishwomen fasted for forty-two days; in Paris a famous beauty expired from starvation induced by the effort to retain her figure. Anxiety about health became a panic. Acidosis, basal metabolism, and details of digestive processes were conversational commonplaces.

And then, just as we were becoming more and more credulous and thoroughly confused, certainty came back with spinach. The carload lots of spinach scorned by the hundred thousand in the space of a few years. Vitamins came next with a host of new alarms over scurvy and beri-beri and rickets. We rushed in search of "preventive" elements in food. All green vegetables were full of vitamins. It was not until Vilhjalmur Stefansson went on an exclusive meat diet and not only lived but emerged in the pink of condition that some husbands could look at a good English steak without feeling ashamed of themselves.

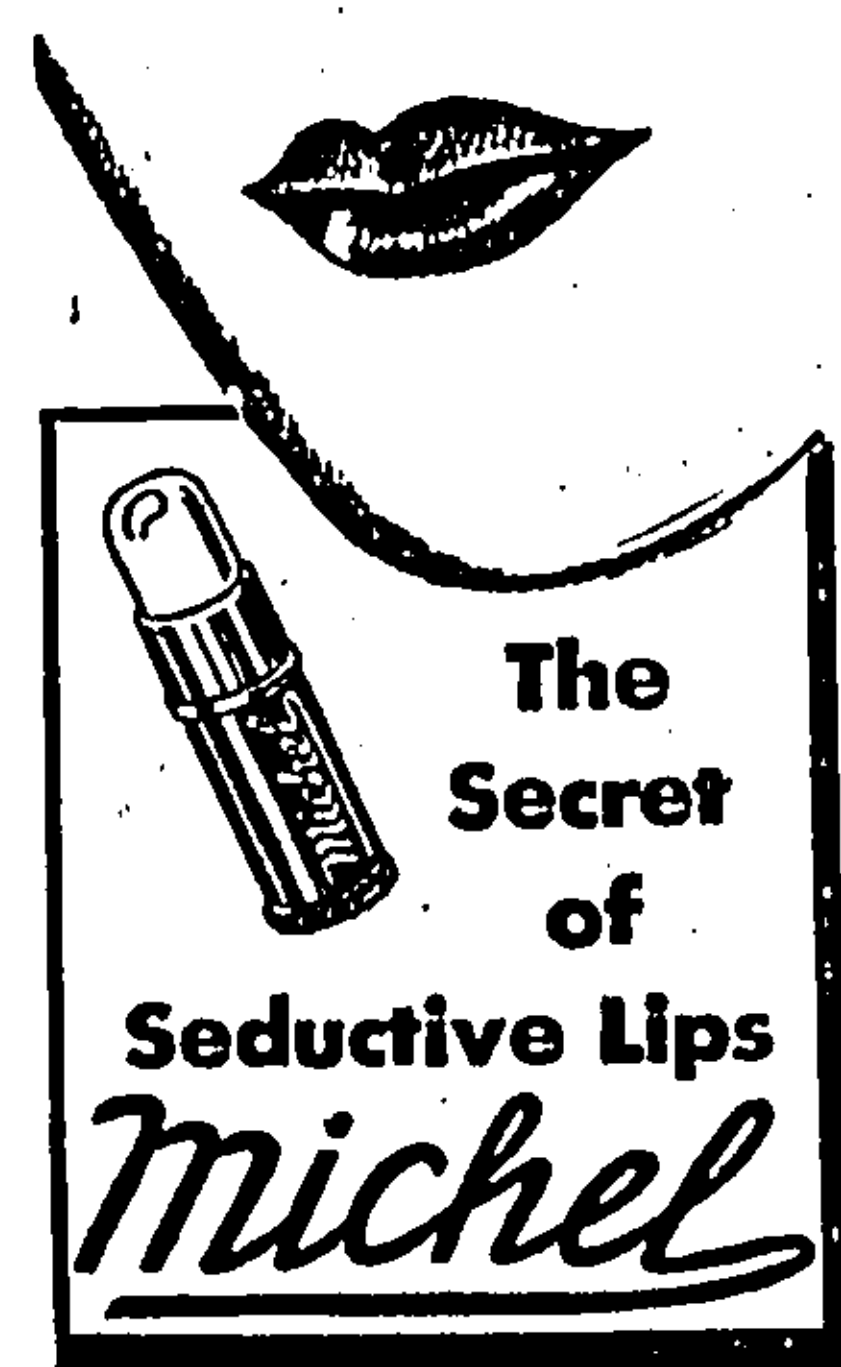

Diet Fads

The important research in the field of nutrition went on, but the diet faddist never waited for it to be finished. Of late we have heard that a serious problem in conducting laboratory feeding tests is finding a substance free from vitamins! The common foods are swarming with vitamins. And the more science learns about diet the less it is inclined to dogmatise.

In general, what we want to eat is good for us. We have lost some of our certainty, but much of our anxiety has gone too. You can take your diet fads or leave them alone. And what about those surplus pounds? Well, if you will harken to the Diet Specialist:—"No Meat, No Pastry, No Sweets, No... No... No...; But Last Thing for a Night-cap, Shall We Say, Try Sipping a Small Glass of Cold Cabbage-water."

THE defeat of the Rumjahn cousins, made a sensation that would only be surpassed if a pony should turn up that could beat Liberty Bay. Of course every run of championship victories is bound to come to an end, but lots of inevitable things give us a jolt when they happen. Spectators of the finals of the last two years saw games that might easily have ended otherwise, but the victory went to the couple that could put up the best "marathon."

Tennis Partnerships

OF all the games that are played tennis provides the smallest proportion of "upsets," and the reason is obvious. It is only by playing against the best players that any competitor can perfect his "match play." The same reason accounts for the permanence of partnerships, and the frequency with which they are a family affair. Under the strain of a long match combination breaks down unless it has become instinctive, and it is easier for brothers or other close relatives to play constantly together, and to oblige each other without offence. In the early days of tennis, before hard hitting had been established as the only orthodox policy, and tricky screw-backs were loudly applauded, the game was dominated by the brothers W. and E. Renshaw, who were invincible. Their first win was in 1880 and their last in 1889. I saw them play in their heyday, but their obvious command of the game did not make it interesting to watch. Then came the Baddeley brothers with four championships, and the Doherty brothers with eight, though not consecutive. The Dohertys were the best to watch. They were twins, and had exactly the same style, which was very graceful and easy. As their combination was perfect they never seemed to be exerting themselves. After one of the brothers died the other never played again.

Marathon Tennis

THE long rallies of some recent years, which have given rise to the expression "marathon tennis," have made a championship match one of the severest tests that anyone can submit himself to, but the forcing shot is the best game. Austin for instance might have won many more victories had he not been rather a delicate man. The Baddeley brothers were both very short, and had to do an inordinate amount of running about. Only their wonderful combination saved them, and it was never at fault—they always seemed to be making for the right spot for the next stroke when the other brother was playing the ball. Like many other players of those days they used ordinary gymnasium shoes, and I can remember one game which was stopped three times for them to put on a new pair. That, by the way, might be called the first "marathon." They started the match about 2.0 p.m., and the Earl of Derby was there to present the cup. Four hours later the game was stopped by the umpire on the ground of falling light, at two sets and two games all. The noble President departed without any ceremony, and the match had to be finished the next morning. In 1893 they were beaten by Pim and Stoker, after a contest which from the spectator's point of view was one of the best of the series. Pim was the singles champion that year, as well as Irish champion. Stoker was a clubmate whom he had coached, but was almost unknown in England. The Baddeleys began to pepper the supposed weaker opponent, and Pim was inclined at first to pounce. But Stoker rose to the occasion, and played a game 100 per cent. better than he had ever done before, or ever did after. Almost every ball produced a smash, and not one of them went out. In the last set they were carefully leaving him alone, and playing at Pim, but it was too late to alter the result.

Our Local Games

WRITING before the issue is decided it would be rash to prophecy whether the defeat of the champions meant the winning of the trophy, but the semi-finals and final are evidently left in that open field which arouses interest and enthusiasm. It is a mistake to suppose that the excitement of a local competition must be so much less than Wimbledon or any other of the big fixtures. The main requirement is that the contestants shall be equally matched, and the issue depend on pluck, nerve, and match-craft. In some remarks on the last win of the Renshaws, "Punch" said that "a diminishing crowd assembled to watch the inevitable brothers cut their usual capers with annually decreasing agility." Time does tell its story in a growing preference for waiting for the ball instead of running up to meet it. At whatever risk the forcing game must be tried, and it is quite likely that our classic local ground may witness a lot more of the "run in and kill" style, with great advantage. "He either fears his fate too much, or his desert is small, who fears to put it to the touch to gain or lose it all."—COMMENTATOR.

Chinese Selector Arrives
DR. C. C. YOONG, one of the principal selectors of the all-China Olympic football team, arrived in the Colony a week ago last Friday and will remain here until such time as the team is selected, travelling back to Shanghai with them. He will be present at all the important League and representative matches in which Chinese teams are featured.

Rumjahn Plays Billiards
IT may not be generally known that H. D. Rumjahn, the well-known tennis star, is also quite an adept at billiards. He has been playing a great deal recently and in a game last week made a break of 43.

Badminton Supporter Leaving
L. D. SKINNER, the Hon. Secretary of the Hong Kong Badminton League, is leaving the Colony next month on long leave. A keen worker, he has done much to promote the game in the Colony.

Chinese Take Up Hockey
THERE is every possibility that another Malayan-Chinese hockey team will pay a visit to the Colony next year and that some of the best players of other nationalities may be included in the party. Mr. Yeoh Cheok-wah, who brought the previous side down two seasons ago, has expressed regret at the absence of any Chinese teams in the Colony, saying that the game had taken on like wild fire among Chinese Clubs in Malaya and Borneo.

Perkins Due Back Shortly
THOUGH the Police have lost E. G. Post, who is on Home leave, they will have Perkins, who will have returned before the start of the bowls season.

China's Soccer Plans
THE itinerary of the Chinese Olympic Football team to visit the Berlin Games has been approved. The final selection will be made in the Colony on April 15, following which two friendly games will be played in Hong Kong, and possibly one in Canton. The team will sail for Shanghai on April 20 and will play three or four games there, leaving on May 2 by the French mail steamer for Saigon, where they will participate in two or three games.

They will then sail for Java, via Singapore, arriving in Batavia on May 6. Nine or ten games will be played in Java before the team leave Batavia on June 3.

A tentative programme has been arranged for the period following their Java tour: two games in Singapore on June 6 and 7, and then one game at Medan, Penang, Rangoon and Calcutta. The team will travel across India by train, arriving in Bombay in time to catch the Italian mail steamer for Genoa. No further games will be played after the team's arrival at Genoa until the Olympic Games in Berlin.

Ladies' Swimming At "Y"
MRS. M. READ, the former Colony harbour lady swimming champion, will be taking a competitive interest in the Y. M. C. A. swimming section this year, and it is hoped that they will be able to raise another ladies' swimming team to compete against the Chinese Clubs.

Portugal Well Supported
ONE of the outstanding features of the recent hockey international final between Portugal, the winners, and England was the great number of supporters who came all the way from Macau to see their national team in action. Over four-fifths of the spectators at last Sunday's game were Portuguese, and moral support goes a long way in a match of that sort.

Malayan Swimmers May Visit H.K.
PROVIDING their expenses can be guaranteed, the Singapore and Penang Chinese Swimming Clubs, who possess the best talent in Malaya, will be willing to send a representative team to the Colony during the coming season. Should they be invited it will be the first time in the history of the Colony that a Malayan swimming team has officially visited these shores, although in 1927 their contingent to the National Games competed against the best in the Colony.

Three Police Footballers Leaving
C. PILE, C. Blackburn and T. Pile are all due for Home leave before the next football season.

Brindlecombe Hard At Practice
BRINDLECOMBE, one of the outstanding billiards players of the Prison Officers' Mess, has been practicing seriously since he returned from leave. He will probably be playing for the Mess during next season's Steel, Coulson's Billiards League.

Urge for School Badminton
THE new Central British School's main hall is one of the largest in the Colony and can easily accommodate two badminton courts. The Colony is probably the only port in the East where schools do not take an active interest in the game, and with the facilities available there seems to be no excuse for it.

All-Rounder Arrives
IT is understood that T. Redman, who arrived in the Colony recently to join the Government Analyst's office, is a cricketer and Rugby player of high standard, having taken part in "good class cricket and Rugby" at Home.

Rifles To Be Strengthened
THE Rifles' senior football team are anxiously awaiting the arrival of Bandsman J. Moore, their former pivot, who has been at Kneller Hall for a course in music. He will probably be leading the team to allow Campbell to retain his place. Moore is reported to be an exceptionally good player.

Small-Ball Soccer League
THE Chinese Civil Servants' Club are organising a Small Ball Soccer League on the Southern Playground, Wanchai, this month. About 20 teams will be competing and a number of Eastern's footballers have agreed to referee the games, among whom are Cheng Sul-hon, Li Bing-tong, Kam Pak-sui and Ho Chan-hon.

Because President Roosevelt promised to send her to Warm Springs, Georgia, Dorothy Porter, 16-year-old Cambridge, Mass., victim of infantile paralysis, has written the chief executive a letter of thanks. ECONOMIES BRING SMALL PROFIT

Annual Report Of Messrs. Gande Price

MOST DIFFICULT YEAR IN HISTORY OF COMPANY

In spite of an even more difficult year than the previous one, Messrs. Gande Price managed to show a profit of $644.47 for the year 1935 at their annual general meeting yesterday at their registered offices.

Mr. J. P. Shea was in the Chair and was supported by Mr. S. C. Wong and Mr. K. Chan (Directors) and the following shareholders, Mr. D. Runjahn, Mr. Tau Ho-tseung and Mr. Lam Shiu-wan, Mr. R. P. Phillips (Manager) and Mr. J. M. Wong (Secretary).

Chairman's Speech

Addressing the meeting, the Chairman said:

"The working for the year 1935 resulted in a profit of $644.47 and thus reduced the debit balance on Profit and Loss Account as at December 31, 1934, to $10,285.33, which amount your Directors propose to carry forward to 1936."

"The year under review was even more difficult than previous ones. Comparing with 1934, the corresponding figures showed a decrease of approximately 20 per cent. in turnover and about $2,000 in revenue from rents. During the year your Directors effected all possible reductions in salaries and overhead expenses, and I desire to record the loyal manner in which the staff accepted the measures, which the Board deemed necessary to adopt."

"Turning to the Profit and Loss Account, it will be seen that your Directors have voluntarily waived their fees and that your Auditors have also been good enough to reduce their fees. I am glad to say that by having exercised the most stringent economy, the most difficult year so far experienced by this Company resulted in a slight profit instead of a heavy loss."

"As to the future, although the promise of stability in our exchange would undoubtedly improve business generally and that conditions for the past three months have given us good reason to be optimistic, we must yet be prepared for another lean year, and I can assure you economy compatible with efficiency will still continue to be our watchword."

"In conclusion, gentlemen, I have much pleasure in proposing the adoption of the Report and Statement of Accounts as presented."

Report Seconded

Mr. Runjahn, seconding the adoption of the Report and Accounts, said:—

"I have much pleasure in seconding the adoption of the Report and Statement of Accounts, but before doing so I desire to express the shareholders' gratitude to you and your fellow Directors for voluntarily waiving their fees. I desire also to extend the shareholders' gratitude to our Auditors, for their spontaneous action in reducing their audit fees."

"I am pleased to note that the directors have exercised all possible reductions in salaries and overhead expenses."

"I am also pleased to note that the Company has effected a small profit for the year under review, due especially to the above

POOL BETTING BILL DEFEATED

UNJUST INTERFERENCE WITH PRIVATE LIBERTY

HUMOUR IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

London, Yesterday.

The debate on a private member's bill designed to prohibit football pool betting enlivened the proceedings in the House of Commons yesterday. Mr. R. J. Russell (L., Eddersbury), moving the second reading, described the pool betting as one of the most insidious forms of education in gambling ever devised. It was not a sporting event but a financial one, for which the best slogan was "Something for nothing."

After Mr. Russell had spoken for an hour Mr. Will Thorne (Lab., Plaistow) blew a football whistle, while the members, amid laughter, cried "Time!"

Mr. Tom Williams (Lab., Don Valley) said that the pool proprietors were making more profit than the whole of the coal-owners in Great Britain, employing 750,000 men, compared with the 25,000 employed by the pool promoters.

The bill met with opposition on the grounds of unjustifiable interference with private liberty, Mr. A. T. Lennox-Boyd (C., Mid Bedford) stating that they could trust the British working man to spend in the best manner possible what he had earned by hard work and enterprise.

Mr. A. P. Herbert (Ind., Oxford University) said that the philosophy of the bill was that Parliament should wrap citizens in moral cotton-wool and place them in a moral glass-house to prevent the wind of temptation touching them.

Mr. Geoffrey Lloyd (C., Ladywood) said that an old farm labourer had written to one of his colleagues stating that he never betted, "but please oppose the bill, as the pool coupon keeps the old woman quiet for at least two nights a week." (Laughter.)

The bill was defeated by 287 votes to 24. — Reuter.

OVER-AGE BATTLESHIPS TO BE REPLACED

CONSTRUCTION TO BE COMMENCED IN U.S. IMMEDIATELY

Washington, Yesterday.

Admiral Standley, acting Secretary of the Navy on account of the prolonged illness of Mr. Claude A. Swanson, conferred at length with Mr. William Phillips, Under-Secretary of State, and subsequently, in the presence of Mr. Norman Davis, told journalists that the construction of the vessels replacing the over-age battleships should be begun as soon as possible.

The British Admiralty had received the authorisation of funds with which to begin building two new battleships in 1937, and there was every reason for the United States to do the same.

Admiral Standley declined to reveal whether the Navy desired a new agreement concerning the fortifications in the Pacific, or whether it would be satisfied with the termination of the present status quo, which would leave the United States, Britain and Japan complete freedom of action in developing the bases of their Pacific Island territories.

Mr. Norman Davis said that the new naval treaty signed at London last week did not provide for a limitation in the size of future fleets, but he expressed the opinion that it represented a step forward and had clarified the atmosphere resulting from Japan's denunciation of the original Washington and London agreements.

Mr. Davis emphasised that the United States did not intend initiating discussions regarding fortifications in the Pacific. The new treaty represented more than they could dare to hope for.—Reuter.

Need For Increases

Later: Admiral Standley informed journalists that two battleships are to be laid down in 1937, and 13 cruisers may be constructed over a period of four years. The increased requirements of the United States Navy were necessitated by the expiration of the Washington and London treaties and the action of the British Government in announcing the plans for an increase in cruiser strength.—Reuter.

CONFERENCE NOW ASSURED

COUNTER PROPOSALS BY FRANCE

DISAPPOINTMENT IN BERLIN

Paris, Yesterday.

A conference of the French Ambassadors in Berlin, London and Rome was held at the Quai d'Orsay for three hours yesterday afternoon. It is understood that the conference was of great importance and covered the ground in the widest possible manner.

French circles are of the opinion that it is fairly certain that a conference of the Locarno Powers will be held next week, probably at Paris, but British quarters at Paris think Brussels is the much more likely venue, and it is understood that the Foreign Office does not favour any very early date for the meeting.—Reuter.

London: A quiet week-end is anticipated in official circles in London. It is thought that Mr. Anthony Eden's speech will have a calming effect. Mr. Baldwin has already gone to The Chequers, though Mr. Eden is still at the Foreign Office. Last evening's visitors at the Foreign Office included Signor Grandi, Italian Ambassador, who is understood to have renewed the assurances that Italy will respect the full integrity of the British treaty rights in Abyssinia.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

Paris: It is authoritatively learned that the French reply to the German memorandum will contain counter-proposals. M. Flandin is drafting a reply, to which the finishing touches will be given at the Council of Ministers on Monday.

Brussels: The articles proposed by the new Belgian Defence Bill, empowering the Government to raise the money to keep enough men under the colours to assure instant mobilisation for the manning of Belgium's frontiers, has been passed by the Chamber.

BRITISH MOVE CRITICISED

Berlin: The British letters to the French and Belgian Governments are tantamount to an encouragement of the French stubbornness and put a premium on the rejection of the German proposals, declares the Wilhelmstrasse organ, Diplomatische Korrespondenz, which says that a satisfactory settlement has been rendered even more difficult, and it is even doubtful if the small circles of the Powers will first engage in unilateral agreements, especially if they are of a military character.—Reuter.

BERLIN DISAPPOINTED

Berlin: While official circles decline to comment on Mr. Eden's speech at present, well-informed circles are disappointed at Mr. Eden's insistence on the General Staff talks at a time when Germany expected some new constructive gesture for peace.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

ASSEMBLY DEMANDED

Paris: At the close of the Ambassadors' discussions last night it was announced that the French Government will insist on the assembly of the representatives of the four Locarno Powers during the coming week.

ITALY TO PARTICIPATE?

Rome: Concerning the French proposals that there should be a meeting of the four Locarno Powers in Brussels shortly, it is stated from authoritative sources that negotiations to this effect are already in progress, and that Italy will probably participate.—Trans-Ocean Service.

TRAINING FOR LOCAL BOYS

Aberdeen Industrial School

SPLENDID OPPORTUNITIES AFFORDED

Many have heard that in Aberdeen there is an industrial school, but very few know what is inside it. A description is given below, as a result of a visit on Friday last by the commercial students of the Polytechnic Commercial School, headed by the principal, Mr. Chun Wai-ming, to whom the Rev. Father Louis Macossano, sub-director of the school, extended a very warm welcome.

A visit to this institution will persuade anyone that Hong Kong should be proud of this school, which looks like a little university. The writer feels inclined to think that should there exist more schools of this kind here, Hong Kong's present illiterate industrial workers would be displaced by intelligent and well-disciplined labourers who would understand what is meant by a "finished article." The future of these fortunate children is undoubtedly bright and, though unemployment is the bitter cry among the workers of to-day, they need not entertain any fear of being unable to earn their daily bread if they can complete any trade-course prescribed in this school.

Two Categories

The school caters for two categories of pupils, students and artisans. The former follow the Government school curriculum for Vocational Schools. The latter provide for vocational training. It is this latter category that chiefly impresses one. It is divided into four sections at present, viz., tailoring, carpentry, machinery and shoe-making.

On the uppermost story of the building are a few big dormitories, capable of accommodating 800 pupils. They are most neatly kept and everything in them is in excellent order. On some of the steel beds are attached brass plates on which the names of the donors are cut.

Below the dormitories are dining halls which are as bright and well-ventilated as the sleeping rooms above. Steel-legged round tables with terrazzo tops, of uniform size, present a smart arrangement. Lavatories and bath-rooms with terrazzo basins and bath-tubs are as hygienic as desirable.

Cinema Projector

The capacious Halifax Hall is fitted with a cinematograph operating room. With two enclosed playgrounds of extensive area adjoined to it, the building is as up-to-date as, if not more modern than, that of any school in the city of Victoria.

There are now over 400 pupils, including over 100 day boys. The annual fee is $180, covering food, housing, clothing, and instruction. Pupils are admitted twice a year, in September and at the Chinese New Year. The management of the school is entrusted to the Salesian Society, and Fr. Bocca-sino will be pleased to welcome any visitor.—Contributed.

THE FANLING HUNT RECORD GATHERING AT LAST MEET OF THE SEASON

THE Meet last Sunday was held at Mr. Watson's bungalow, where the field were most hospitably entertained by Mr. Watson and Mr. Moncrieff. It was the hottest hunting day of the year, and so many white drill coats and breeches in the brilliant sunshine gave that tropical aspect we have been fortunate in avoiding up till now. A large field had gathered for this last Sunday meet of the season. Those present included Miss Alabaster, Lt.-Comdr. Alexander, Major and Mrs. Alston, Mr. Amps, Mrs. Anderson, Flight-Lieut. Anderson, Mr. Archer, Mrs. Bathurst, Miss Beavis, Colonel and Miss Bird, Mr. Bosanquet, Mr. Brerley, Miss Carter, Mr. Challinor, Captain Clarke, Mrs. Coltart, Mr. Felden, Mr. Fraser, Miss Gerard, Mrs. Keary, Miss Lord, Dr. MacGown, Mr. Macgregor, Mr. Ian Macgregor, Mr. Mackinlay, Mr. Marson, Mr. Nelson, Miss Owen Hughes, Captain and Mrs. Rybot, Master Martin Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Stanton, Mrs. St. Clair Ford, Miss Smalley, Mr. Wood and Mr. Winkfield. Mr. Potts laid the line. Quite a number of spectators also took advantage of the lovely weather and watched the progress of the Hunt by car and from neighbouring hills.

20-Mile Run

The field moved off down the road and turning right near Sacred Hill, went by the paddy fields and across the River Indus, to wait on the slopes of Crown Ridge. Hounds picked up the scent here and after running a short distance along the base of the Ridge, bore right, up Table Hill and down the other side, and then along the hillside, to finish in the paddy fields near San Uk Ling after a run of not quite 20 minutes.

It was an uneventful line; and the slow pace at which it was run owing to the heat prevented the usual amount of grief. Mr. Marson's pony put its foot in a hole and gave him a fall. Mr. Archer also took two falls during the course of the afternoon.

Miss Gerrard was trying her new Australian mare, Canberra Girl, for the first time in the hunting field. It is a nice-looking animal and, though nervous, behaved very well. Lt.-Comdr. Alexander's Black Magic was out on its first hunt since it got a bad overreach and gave him such a nasty fall in the Country Race at Kwanti, nearly two months ago.

For the second time the field moved off up the Frontier Road and made their way to The Gallops, where they waited for hounds. Hounds came by, running well, and led the field a very good line over nice country to the finish on Kitten Hill.

Final Meet

The final Meet of the season was held at Lok Ma Chau cross-road on Wednesday, when a comparatively small field of under 30 turned out. There was a general feeling of sadness that it was the last hunt, but the sunny, hot weather made everyone realise that it was time for it to finish for this year.

The field moved off down the main road for some distance, and then turned off left, where hounds picked up the scent. This line described a big right-handed circle, round Pine Tree Hill and, skirting Shek Wo Wal, finished on a small hill near the road. The pace was not fast and the field kept well together over a long and good line. The only mishap occurred to Mr. Brerley, who took a fall just before the finish.

After the check, the field rejoined the road and turned up left towards Lok Ma Chau. They turned off right before reaching the village and, hounds, picking up the scent here, ran along the foot of the hills, leaving Mount Fowler and Mount Kivpatrick on their left. Just above Dill's Corner hounds lost the scent, which was not lying very well in the heat. They were cast in a small right-handed circle back to Dill's Corner, but were unable to pick it up again. The finish was at Dill's Corner. This was a good line over some nice country, and was a good day's sport to finish the season.

A VERY pleasant function took place in the West Lounge of the European Y.M.C.A. last Wednesday evening, when a sukuyaki party was held under the auspices of the Women's Section, with Mrs. M. Read as Mistress of Ceremonies. Everything went off according to schedule and this famous Japanese "chow" was made on the spot, cushion seats being provided on the floor for the diners. Chutneys were used as stoves, supported by tiles so as not to damage the floor. A very enjoyable time was spent by all, among those present being Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ingram and Mr. T. Mineral deficiency stands between you and REAL HEALTH

One small defect impairs the efficiency of the most perfect piece of mechanism. And that applies to nature's masterpiece—your body. If the cells are starved ill-health follows. Calcium is the one vital mineral without which the life centre of the body cells would shrivel and die, and Kalzana supplies this element in a form which the system can easily assimilate and retain.

By remedying this deficiency and making the cell-nucleus plump and strong, Kalzana gets right to the root of ill health. Kalzana improves the condition of the blood, strengthens the whole body and supplies the teeth with the elements they need to keep them hard and white and immune from decay. A course of Kalzana quickly gives new strength and vigour—begin yours to-day.

"I am never without Kalzana, and taking them always, but at any time of extra strain, and when there are colds and other infections about."

Is YOUR Boy the ONE in TEN?

RECENT investigations disclose the alarming fact that nine out of ten school children have decayed teeth. Dental science warns that this menace must be combated.

Germ Acids form from fermenting food particles hidden in crevices between teeth, in imperfections of the enamel and where teeth meet gums, justly called the Danger Zone. These Germ Acids lead to decay and gum irritations.

You can neutralise the harmful acids merely by brushing with Squibb Dental Cream, a pleasant, economical dentifrice because it is an antacid preparation. It also brings out the natural whiteness of the teeth with perfect safety to enamel and gums for it contains no grit or astringents.

Combat decay scientifically. Put Squibb Dental Cream on guard in the Danger Zone.

FAMOUS BREED OF ARCTIC DOGS

Miss Kilburn-Scott's
Samoyeds

DOG ARISTOCRATS NOW IN THE COLONY

Of more than passing interest to dog-lovers in the Colony is the presence of Miss Ivy Kilburn-Scott, who has brought the first champion Samoyeds ever seen in Hong Kong. They are bred from all the leading champion specimens of the breed in England and possess pedigrees seven generations in length.

The first Samoyed dog to arrive here was "Farnham Polar Bear," a perfect specimen and a much-travelled dog, whose portrait appears in the Magazine accompanying this issue. The Samoyed is vastly different from and superior to the little Spitz, with which he is often confused. "Bru" stands 22 inches high at the shoulder and turns the scale at 50 lbs.

Miss Kilburn-Scott has recently had great success in breeding these aristocrats of the canine world in Japan and Shanghai. She has owned the leading kennel of these dogs in England, has promoted the breed in America and other parts of the world, is a recognised authority on dogs and is, incidentally, an expert judge. She is a member of the Kilburn-Scott family who were pioneer breeders of these dogs in England. She has established the fact that the specimens brought out and bred by herself are the only genuine Samoyeds in the Far East.

Home Of The Breed

The natural habitat of the Samoyed dog, a most intelligent and interesting breed, is the "tundra" or marsh country of Siberia, stretching along the shores of the Arctic Ocean from the White Sea to the Yenisei River, and the island of Kolguev. From time immemorial this has been the home of the Samoyed people, who are the purest branch of the Finno race. In England the dog is kept only as a companion and house-guard, but in its native country it is put, probably, to more uses than any other dog in the world. Its principal work is driving and rounding up the immense herds of reindeer, which it does in much the same way that a shepherd 'works' a flock of sheep. When any of the reindeer have to be caught they wheel round in circles, while the dogs tear after them barking furiously. It is the duty of the dogs to bring the deer within lasso-range of their masters. They rush about frantically at the commands of the men, whose loud cries add to the excitement.

The dogs are also employed in towing boats, for in summer the tundras are intersected in all directions by lakes and rivers. They are wonderfully trained for this work; at call they will swim across with a towline, and, on reaching the opposite shore, will form up and at the word of command tow the boat over.

Points Of The Samoyed

Samoyeds are one of the most beautiful breeds and, wherever they go, attract attention because of their elegant carriage and striking appearance. The full-grown Samoyed dog stands from twenty to twenty-two inches at the shoulder and weighs from forty to fifty pounds. The skull is broad and flat, muzzle of medium length—not too sharply defined; ears pricked, rather short and roundish at the tips, set well apart, not in a forward position as in the Chow or "Husky"; the eyes are expressive, not prominent or rounded as in the Pomeranian type; the tail, a spreading plume, is carried over the back, not coiled tightly as in the Chow; the feet are rather long in shape and hairy, well let down, a peculiarity in animals accustomed to walking amongst snow. The coat is of long white fur standing out straight from the body, quite free from curl, with a short, dense woolly undercoat. Each hair has an ice-like glister. The colour is snow-white, cream, or white with light buff colour on ears. Contrary to general opinion the Samoyed's coat requires no inordinate care to preserve its beauty. Five minutes brushing daily, with an occasional combing and a weekly bath, will keep it in excellent condition.

As regards temperament these dogs are unsurpassed. Always gentle, even-tempered, faithful and highly intelligent, they are devoted to children and have proved to be excellent companions and house-dogs.

Resistance To Climate

In England the Samoyed has also made himself popular on account of having been employed for sledging work on several famous expeditions to the North and South

Little hope is being expressed that the mixed commission appointed by the Government of Mr. Koki Hirota (top centre), then Foreign Minister of Japan, and that of M. Joseph Stalin (bottom centre), Russian Dictator, will solve the difficulties arising from last month's clashes between the Sovietised Mongolian troops and those of Kang Teh (left), Manchukuan Emperor, on border (x) between the two countries. Meanwhile Japanese-Manchukuan troops, such as above, have been marched into the trouble zone in large numbers and several minor skirmishes have occurred.

No Justification
Germany had at that time more to gain from it than any of the other signatories. Circumstances may have altered, but that was no justification for unilateral repudiation of the treaty by which the demilitarised zone was created. Machinery was specifically provided for a settlement of disputes between parties to the treaty.

No one who had studied the facts of the offer made to Germany during the past year for negotiations on political and disarmament problems could doubt that Britain, at least, had been prepared to enter into negotiations with a desire to give sympathetic consideration to Germany's legitimate claims.

The crisis which had so rudely disturbed and shaken the confidence of the world had been due to the fact that Germany, flushed with the wine of her recently acquired military power, had preferred to attempt a solution of these grave international problems not by reason but by force.

Force Rather Than Reason

History taught that it is upon force rather than reason that those who determined the German policy prefer to rely. Only by such a conference as the Locarno Powers suggested could Europe free herself from the menace that hung over her.

The reply of the German Government to the proposals of March 19, although constituting a refusal to the three requests made to Germany, did not forward suggestions, the importance of which were obvious to all. He hoped they might prove to be a real contribution to the end in view. But however attractive the German proposals might appear, the fact remained that the immediate task of bringing to one conference table all the nations directly concerned had to be undertaken under the shadow of two baleful factors—Germany's feverish rearmament and her unilateral violation of a solemn treaty willingly entered into.—British Wireless Service.

ST. JOHN BRIGADE

Concert By H.M.S. Diamond

A small but appreciative audience attended the Charity concert given by the concert party of H.M.S. Diamond in aid of the funds of the St. John's Ambulance Brigade at their headquarters last night. The programme was a varied and interesting one and it seems a pity that such an excellent show, for such a worthy cause, was not better supported.

Among those who attended the concert were Lieut.-Commander N. L. Dwan and party, Lieut. Lane and party, Lieut. Penke, Lieut. Lay, Lieut. Maguire, Sub-Lieut. Baker, Commission Gunner Lintern, Mr. H. H. Beddow, Mrs. Langley, and Messrs. Cha Tat-kwong, A. H. Rumbold, Tu Kai Chung and B. A. Hyder.

There was not a single dull moment throughout the programme, and special mention must be made of the Harmony Quartet—Messrs. Thomas, Torbin, Hiser and Birch—for their contribution.

Another good item on the programme was the dialogue by Messrs. Cottrell and Grant, entitled "Two Black Crows".

KOWLOON-UNION CHURCH WHIST DRIVE

There was a good attendance at the weekly Whist Drive held at Kowloon Union Church last night, 18 tables being taken up. Miss Sinclair won the Ladies' first prize, while the second and consolation prizes were won by Mrs. Short and Mrs. Excell respectively. Mr. Excell won the Men's first prize, while Mr. Matthews and Mr. Hall won the second and consolation prizes respectively.

The fortnightly whist drive of the Uralgower Cricket Club was held last night. Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Newman, and Mrs. Brewis won the Ladies' prizes, while Messrs. Seaman, Smith and Gerard won the Gentlemen's prizes.

RECORD ASSEMBLY AT HOTEL

DAYS RECALLED WHEN CLUB UNBEATEN

FOUNDER MEMBER PRESIDES

REMINISCENCES of the days when the Hong Kong Football Club reigned supreme on the Rugby field and were never beaten were given by Mr. G. H. Potts, the "Grand Old Man of Rugby in Hong Kong," when he presided at the Golden Jubilee Dinner of the Hong Kong Football Club last night in the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden, when a record attendance of 165 persons, including many official guests, attended.

Mr. Potts was in the Chair and was supported on his right by Mr. T. A. Mitchell, Vice-President of the H.K.F.A., Dr. J. H. McElney, Mr. Wong Ka-tsun (South China), Mr. H. K. Lee (Chinese Athletic), Mr. C. A. Goldenberg and others, while Col. H. C. Harrison, Chairman of the Hong Kong Football Association, was on his left supported by Mr. H. R. "Rusty" Forsyth, Lt. Benson, R.N., Lieut. J. A. M. Rice-Evans (Army), and Committee members of the Club.

After the President had proposed the Toast of "The King," Mr. T. A. Mitchell, rose to propose the Toast of the H.K.F.C. He said in part:—

"It gives me great pleasure in being honoured to propose the toast of the evening, 'The Hong Kong Football Club,' which this year has attained its Golden Jubilee.

"In the good old days before difficulties of bad trading, budget deficiencies and violent exchange fluctuations, when overheads did not amount to so much, when whisky was one dollar a bottle and drinking in Scotland was only in its infancy, (laughter) I'm told, to be precise on February 12, 1886, a meeting was held in the V.R.C. and there it was proposed and unanimously carried 'that a football club for the Rugby and Association games be started and that it be called the 'Hong Kong Football Club.'"

"I must read to you a letter from a former President of your Club who held the office for 10 years. I refer to Sir Stewart Lockhart, who resided in Hong Kong from 1897 and 1902 and was afterwards Governor of Wei-Hai-Wei. He is also a brother-in-law of one of the Colony's finest sportsmen, our old friend Dick Hancock. (Applause).

Past President's Letter

The following was Sir Stewart Lockhart's letter to Mr. G. H. Potts:—
"My Dear George,
"My brother-in-law, Dick Hancock has sent me a prospectus of the Hong Kong Football Club, for the Interport match 1936, from which I see that the Club is to celebrate this year its Golden Jubilee. I am writing by air mail so as to be in time for your Jubilee Celebrations on April 14 and to offer you and the Club my hearty congratulations on its having reached its Golden Jubilee.
"As one of the founders of the Club I wish I could be with you at the Banquet and join with you in the toast of continued long life and prosperity for the Club, coupled with the name of my very old friend, the President, who may well be styled the 'Grand Old Man of the Rugby game in Hong Kong.'"

"Will you kindly tell the members of the Club that I am still proud to wear the gold watch which the Club presented to me on leaving Hong Kong in 1902 for Wei-Hai-Wei, for having been your President for 10 years.
"I congratulate the Club on having, as President such a worthy successor as you are, who has always played the game as Rugby, players should play it, and who will always maintain the best traditions of that game of which I have such pleasant memories during the happy years of my residence in Hong Kong from 1879 to 1902.
"I wish you the best of good luck for the Club and its members.
Your Old Friend,
SIR STEWART LOCKHART.
(Former President of the Hong Kong Football Club for 10 years).

Unbiased Support

"As Vice President of the Hong Kong Football Association, I feel sure that I am expressing the views of the Council in saying that the members the Hong Kong Football Club have put forward from time to time as their Representative have been men who have at all times had the Association game at heart and have given the Council their utmost and unbiased support. (Heard!)

"In closing, it gives me great pleasure in wishing the Hong Kong Football Club every success in the years to come, not only in the way of social success, but in the field of sport where the winning of the League Championship or the Senior

Shield would add further laurels and achievement to its popularity. 'Gentlemen, I give you the 'The Hong Kong Football Club.' (Applause).

President's Speech

Mr. G. H. Potts, in rising to propose the toast of "The Guests," said:

"It is very wonderful to be alive to-day to see and celebrate the Golden Jubilee of the Hong Kong Football Club. I remember the meeting in the V.R.C. in 1886, when the Club was formed, and can recall some of the old players. We had some wonderful Rugby players in those days and played many a game and were never beaten. I can recall two great players, Sir Robert Jardine and David Landale. They were some three-quarters, and I can honestly say I have never seen better. (Laughter).

"Nowadays, the Club can be thankful for a good ground, but in the old days we had to be content with a hard dusty ground which supported the doctors of the Colony and kept them going week-end after week-end (loud laughter), patching up our elbows and knees, which were bereft of skin.

"I must admit that wonderful strides have been made since those days and the Club has been getting better and better, although the standard of Rugby has deteriorated, and I judge this by the fact that in the old days we were never beaten. (Loud laughter and applause).

"The visit of the New Zealand Universities' side to the Colony was a tremendous asset as they taught us how to play the game, although they were only boys and we men! It was a tremendous day for Colony Rugby when those husky youths from New Zealand played here, and we have much to thank them for. I only hope that we shall be able to entertain more of these New Zealand and Australian Rugby teams in the future. (Loud and prolonged applause).

"Before I close I would like to say how gratefully we, the past and present generation of the Club, appreciate the thought that many of our old comrades have not forgotten us. Here is a telegram received from London, which reads:

Following former members send greetings to President and present members Football Club on occasion Jubilee—Stewart Lockhart, Oliver Barnes, Frank Browne, Ben Johnston, Lang, Lee, Padfield, Ram, Tim Wright.

(Loud applause and cheering).
I will send a reply on Monday to these former friends of ours, thanking them for their happy thought and to say how much the Club and members appreciate their message. (Applause).

"Before I finally wind up I want to say that this Club is the Club, in spite of our having lost the Interport Rugby, which we partially made up for by winning the Seven-A-Side Rugby Tournament. The latter was a wonderful display and one of the finest it has been my privilege to witness. Gentlemen, I now give you Our Guests. The whole company, with the exception of the guests, then rose and sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

Mr. G. H. Potts, above, President of the Hong Kong Football Club, and Founder Member, presided over the Golden Jubilee celebrations yesterday.

Col. Harrison's Reply

Col. Harrison, replying on behalf of the guests, made a brilliant speech and brought the house down when he drew a comparison between himself and the ladies of a grand old fashion, who had to look to the latter for guidance as to whether "to-night's the night" and he knew it was. (Loud and long laughter).

Col. Harrison made reference to both Association and Rugby on behalf of the guests, whom he said he was very proud to represent. He said that he and his guests very much regretted the number of "incidents" which were taking part on Association grounds, but he drew the attention of those present to the fact that it was up to the Europeans to set an example to other nationalities in pointing out what it was to be an amateur and how to retain that status. (Heard!)

With regard to Rugby, Col. Harrison said:—"We feel that we have no complaint to make about the skill displayed in the Colony, but we do feel that you do not play the game in the same spirit as the players of bygone days. When you are losing a game and the other side has scored a try, your captain will say, 'Never mind, it's all in the game.' I know you will say that you were brought up to be good losers, but the main trouble seems to be that you're too good losers. (Loud laughter and prolonged applause).

"After having given our hosts a severe ticking off (laughter) I wish on behalf of my fellow guests to thank you all most heartily for this most pleasant function, which I am sure we have all thoroughly enjoyed."

Cups Presented

Following this Mr. Forsyth, Chairman of the Club, drew attention to the Club's activities in the past, and, before concluding, asked Lt. Benson, R.N., to hand the Triangular Tournament Rugby Trophy over to Lieut. J. A. M. Rice-Evans, whose hard-working efforts resulted in the Army's first win since 1912. Lieut. Rice-Evans replied suitably.

Mr. Potts then handed the trophy he presented for annual competition to Mr. G. Rodger, captain of the Soccerites, who beat the Ruggierites in their 14-a-side encounter yesterday.

In conclusion, Mr. V. M. Grayburn, Chief Manager of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, paid a tribute to the Chairman and asked the Company to rise and drink his health, which they did wholeheartedly, standing on tables and chairs and concluding with "For he's a jolly good fellow."

Following the dinner, a very successful dance and cabaret was held, the Roof Garden being packed to capacity.

Those Present

Among those present at the dinner were Lt. J. C. Benson, R.N., Mr. A. Chapman, the Rev. J. T. B. Evans, R.N., Lt. J. R. O. Hamilton, Mr. C. A. Goldenberg, Comdr. T. A. Huxsey, Mr. H. K. Lee, Mr. T. A. Mitchell, Mr. Wong Ka-tsun and Lt. Lincoln. (Official Guests).

EXHIBITION FOOTBALL

SOCCERITES WIN POTTS CUP FOR FIRST TIME

Humorous Matches On Club Ground

LARGE CROWD ATTEND JUBILEE CELEBRATION

There was a very large gathering present at the Hong Kong Football Club yesterday afternoon to witness the exhibition games in celebration of the Club attaining its Golden Jubilee. His Excellency the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, attended by his Aide-de-Camp, Captain W. J. R. Cragg, the Colonial Secretary, the Hon. Sir Thomas Southern, Mr. T. A. Mitchell, Vice-President of the Hong Kong Football Association and Mr. G. H. Potts, the Club, President, being among those present.

The exhibition games provided a great deal of amusement and the "Old Crooks" managed to hold their own at Rugby, when they held the Rest to a pointless draw, while they triumphed at soccer. "Lollie" Goldman netting the only goal of the match. In the last encounter, however, the Soccerites triumphed over the Ruggierites in their 14-a-side clash for the G. H. Potts Cup, using a Rugby ball and soccer goal-posts.

There were numerous changes in the selected sides, but these in no way interfered with the clashes, which were fairly even. The first encounter of the afternoon, the Rugby "Old Crooks" against the Rest ended in a pointless draw, although both sides went very near to scoring.

Rugby Stars
Wormleigh, the "Old Crooks" full-back, played a great game and received able support from Divott, Sommerfield and McLellan, the latter's touch-picking being good, while McDugan, Cummings and Robertson shone for the Rest. Bidwell was also in fine form, although his efforts to break through were invariably frustrated.

The Association "Old Crooks" v. the Rest provided some good play, especially by C. V. E. Bishop, the former's left-back, who saved his charge time and again, while Fogwell was very safe in goal. McBride and McFarlane were the pick of the remaining defenders, the former using his head to great advantage.

Goldman Still Good
Alexander and Rodger were two sound winners, although the latter received very poor support from Beggs, while Goldman showed that he has lost none of his deft touches.

The Rest were well served in defence by Sykes and Elliott, while Forrow was the pick of the inter-mediate line and had Goldman well watched. Pearce was very tricky as the Rest's leader, and Bickford and E. Fowler made a splendid combination on the left wing. After the Rest goal had escaped narrowly on three occasions, Bell charged, Payne, who along the ball out of the goal for Goldman to score from an oblique angle amidst thunderous applause from the many "Old Crooks" in the stand!

Soccerites Win
The last encounter of the afternoon was the first clash for the G. H. Potts Cup, presented by the President for annual competition between teams of 14-a-side, between the Association and Rugby sections of the Club, and yesterday the former won by two goals to nil.

The game was most humorous and the uneven bounce of the ball resulted in countless "air shots". The Ruggierites found some difficulty in controlling the ball until the beginning of the second half, when, with the shout of "Foot" ringing in their ears, they punched and almost dribbled the ball into the Soccerites' net!

Drawn, E. Strang, Millington, Elliott and Wilson shone for the Soccerites, while McGilchrist gave a sterling display between the sticks for the Ruggierites, who were also well served by D. Hynes, Chambers in defence, Munro, Garrod and Robertson in the intermediate line, and Flythe, Bidwell and Weeks among the forwards. The first half failed to produce a score, but Lammert gave the Soccerites a lead when he headed a good goal from a corner kick. Not long after Greenberg placed the issue beyond doubt with a second goal from close quarters.

In the race for the Dowbiggin Trophy, which provided the biggest dividend of the day, Rice-land (Mr. J. K. R. Macgregor), when taking the last hurdle, slipped and threw his rider, otherwise it would have come in third!

NOBLE YOUTHS OF ANCIENT CHINA EARLY LIFE RULED BY RITE AND CEREMONY SPECIAL ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF A CHINESE GENTLEMAN

(By PHYLLIS JUBY)

THE young aristocrat of old China was expected not only to dress well, to hold himself well, to eat well and to speak well, but he was to possess in himself something of the soul of a lord. From birth his life was ordered by the rites. The master of music was there to determine the tone of the child's first cry—a very important matter. It is told that Si Wen of Cheng, in 604 B.C., had a son whose first cry resembled that of a wolf, so the eldest brother asked that the child be put to death.

Strength From Earth
The newly born baby was required to spend three days without food on the earth. It was believed that the child's vital spirit and breath were without force and only by contact with Mother Earth could life be confirmed in him. From the soil he was picked up by a vassal—an intermediary of the father—who threw arrows in all directions and then laid the child on the father's bed. As soon as the arrows struck, the child, purified, could be given food. Arrows were used because the arrow is an emblem of virility. These important rules of etiquette completed, the child lived an uneventful life until the age of three months. And for these three months the mother purified herself by fasting.

The baby is thought to possess only an inferior soul—a soul of the blood—and he is only in a state to possess a superior soul when he is able to laugh. It is the father who teaches him to laugh. At the same time the father gives him his personal name—another important matter, for the Chinese rites say that this name is in agreement with the superior soul, with destiny and with life itself.

Father And Son
In the third month, then, the child is taken and in solemn ceremony presented to the father, who receives him with a smile. The father and mother, clad in new clothes, approach each other now for the first time since they parted three months before the birth. The father touches the right hand of his son and so is linked to him. But there is no intimacy between the father and son, no relationship in the proper sense of the word. They are linked only as friend to friend. The son spends all his childhood away from the paternal influence. And, as one of the fundamental rules of society is the marrying of the sons into the mother's family, it usually happened that the son's education was entrusted to a maternal uncle.

The boy never leaves the apartments of the women until the age of seven. He lives the life of the women though they have taught him masculine manners; to say "yes" in a decided tone and to respond boldly and clearly. At the age of ten he leaves the house and goes to live with a master to learn the rites of politeness and words of sincerity. He learns the different classes of characters and calculation, no longer wearing his jacket and trousers of silk. At thirteen he learns music and to dance the Ko, and to repeat the Odes. He stays with his master until his twentieth year, learning new dances, learning to shoot arrows and drive a chariot.

Noble Accomplishments
Indispensable accomplishments of a gentleman. The archery, then, a test of nobility, was no brutal trial of bravery. It was a musical ceremony, exquisitely correct and disciplined. The contestants took their places, adjusted the arrows, drew the bows and let fly the arrows all at the sound of certain musical notes, and he who took charge cried "touched" if the voice harmonious and in tune. If an arrow did not start on the right note it did not count even if it struck the "bull's eye." The "Book of Rites" says:
"The archers in advancing, in withdrawing, in whirling, must aim at the heart of ritual rules. In oneself the correct attitude of soul, without a straight attitude of the body, that is the way to hold bow and arrow firmly and carefully. Bow and arrow held firmly and carefully, that is what will allow one to say that the center of aim has been struck. And it is in that way that one knows the virtue (tao)."

No movement was without its harmony and its symbol. At twenty the young aristocrat was capped and taught the different classes of ceremonies. He now wears furs and silks and attends sedulously to the filial and fraternal duties. He is no longer dependent on his mother and is excluded from the women's apartments. He renders to his father the homage due to a lord and takes a wife to assist in accomplishing the innumerable duties of filial piety.

Filial Duties
With the crowing of the cock, the son and his wife wash and adorn themselves. Their beautiful dress is in itself a homage. Their attitude is one of respect and their expression is grave; they are obedient in the smallest thing. Should the son see a hole in his parent's coat he will at once ask permission to mend it. Every five days he must heat some water and invite his parents to take a bath and every three days he must prepare the water for them to wash the face.

The first task of filial piety is to look after the food, so the eldest son and his wife must, morning and evening, assist at the meals and of the parents simply to encourage them to eat well of those foods which give strength to old people. At seventy the old people are served only sweet foods. The young lord himself was expected to eat plenty and to know what to eat, for it is only the lord who has enough soul to be able to appreciate food. His food was pure, rich and well-cooked. The greatest duty of the son is to see that the father has a good death. He must die in the room reserved for the master of the house and the mat on which he spends his last moments must correspond exactly to his rank or nobility. He must be carried off to sigh his last on the earth as the newly-born baby was laid on the earth to cry his first cry.

WORLD SALES OF FORDS

Great Improvement
Shown

51.6 PER CENT. INCREASE

World sales of Ford units in 1935 reached a total of 1,311,927. It was announced recently at the home offices of the Ford Motor Company here. This compared with 865,101 total sales in 1934, and represented a gain in 1935 over the preceding year of 446,826 units, or more than 51.6 per cent.

Sales of Ford V-8 units to the public in America totalled 1,005,002 units, compared with 677,179 units in 1934, a gain of more than 57.2 per cent. Ford V-8 sales in America represented approximately 31.1 per cent. of sales by the entire motor-car industry, giving Ford the lead for the year.

Marvel Of Industry
One of the marvels of modern industry most evident at the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company is the manner in which waste materials are converted into useful commodities.

Recovery and conversion activities at the plant centre about the 240 coke ovens. The gasses driven off during the coking process are treated for the recovery of the valuable by-products. Over 3,500 tons of coke are produced daily, yielding by-products including 55,000,000 cubic feet of gas, 40,000 gallons of coal tar, 95,000 pounds of ammonium sulphate, and 12,800 gallons of crude oil, as well as naphthalene and motor benzol. These converted materials are consumed mostly within the Ford factory, but surpluses are made available to others outside who can use them.

Metal Yields
Besides the coke oven by-products, many other "waste" materials about the factory are reclaimed and put into use. The dust from the grinding wheels, containing metal particles, yields tons of metal. Tons of nails are salvaged annually and carefully saved for future use or for scrap metal.

To utilize waste slag from the blast furnaces, the company has erected one of the most modern cement plants in the world, producing 2,600 barrels of Portland cement a day. Every scrap of wood, rubber, metal, string, cloth or leather, no matter how small, may be, is utilized, effecting savings to the company amounting to millions of dollars annually.

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES. — No. 201

"THERE is a communion of delicately-scented pendant foxgloves with beautiful glove-like flowers, white spotted with purple. But perhaps the scents of the earth and air are not picked up by your nostrils; the smells of new-mown hay, of orange blossom, of wistaria, of sweet alyssum, of earth washed with the first rains of spring are words, phrases, with no significance. The tortuous descent to the Sha Tin Valley is being made and the driver has his eyes glued to the road, or should have, but as he comes to the bend, from where the best view of the Lion Rock can be obtained he cannot refrain from glancing across the valley at that precipitous overhanging crag of rock standing like a sentinel guarding the island beyond. Ahead is Ma-on-shan, the curve of saddle clear as if drawn in ink on paper, and below, the valley is dotted with patches of verdant green. No green is as green as that of young rice in the seedling bed. Paddy-green should be on every painter's palette.

"Awake! thou sluggish Nature seems to cry and birds sing, frogs croak and mosquitoes buzz in answer to her summons. The swallows fill their beaks with mud, churned to the consistency of cream by patient water-buffaloes, and plaster it on the ruins of a village home to build with it their nests. Maples have almost finished their nesting period and Coloured Crows are kept busy searching for food for their voracious offspring. The paddy-frog, Rana limocharis, has spawned and soon the flooded fields will be filled with black wriggled, potential frogs, but the paddy-birds will arrive shortly, hungry after their long migration flight, and will diminish the numbers of the tadpoles as fast as possible.

Birds And Reptiles
The Chinese Starlings—grey and cream and black-and-white, have arrived (March 29) and, like cheeky schoolboys released from school, have joined their larger cousins the Crested and the Black-necked Mynahs and have incited them to much noise and mischief. Koels and Crows Pheasants, Bar-bets and Kingfishers are with us again and their distinctive calls and whistles can be heard from hill and valley-wood. Soon the Orioles and Drongos will be here and the Oriole, as if afraid to nest alone, will build its nest near to that of its black and bold friend. But if the Drongo—which is an insect-eater—know that the Oriole lived largely on caterpillars, it might not be so willing to guard its nest.

The reptiles are waking and snakes and lizards can be seen on any day now. A nine-foot python swam to Gap Rock last week, much to the astonishment of the light-house keeper; but pythons are at home as much in the sea as in fresh water and in rivers as on land and a swim of thirty miles or so before breakfast would not affect a python's appetite.

Outstanding Example
In the course of a year visitors from almost every country in the world arrive at Dearborn to see the Rouge Plant, which is generally considered the outstanding example of a self-contained industry and of large-scale production in the world to-day.

The things which most impress visitors, according to the guides at the plant, are, first of all, the final assembly line, and the amazing cleanliness of the 1,100-acre establishment. The elaborate safety "precautions," the well-regulated traffic and the two schools for boys and for adults who wish to improve themselves also attract much comment. At the present time some 2,500 boys are enrolled in the trade school at the plant, and 3,500 boys and men in the apprentice school. All of them "earn as they learn."

A great many visitors go through the plant on the regular conducted group-tours of the plant, which leave the home office every half-hour of the day from 8.30 a.m. to 4.00 p.m., and then return to ask for special guides to take them wherever they wish for more leisurely study of the parts of the plant in which they are especially interested. These special guides (Continued on Page 10)

CONTRACT BRIDGE

PROBLEM THAT IS NOT IMPOSSIBLE

BY LIEUT.-COL. H.M. BEASLEY
HERE is a problem that has aroused considerable controversy in London:

The Contract is Three No Trumps by North and South. West leads the King of Hearts.

Here is the solution I gave, where West continues to lead Hearts and squeezes his partner. "At first sight it looks as though South can only make 8 tricks; but he must take either the first or second Heart and put West in with another Heart.

"West will make four tricks in Hearts, and whatever cards East discards, he (East) is automatically squeezed, and South will make Three No Trumps. No one disputes this solution, but all my critics ask: "If West does not continue with Hearts, what then?"

I will take them in series, if West leads a Spade, a Club, or a Diamond.

VARIATION 1

If West leads a Spade
West leads Heart King, South wins with Ace and leads the Four of Hearts, which West wins. West now leads the Four of Spades. East plays the Jack and South wins with the Ace. South leads the Two of Spades, which East wins with the King. East leads the Queen of Diamonds.

North does not take the trick. East leads the Jack of Diamonds. North wins with the King and leads the Ace of Diamonds, followed by the Seven of Diamonds, which East wins with the Nine. East and West have now won four tricks. The situation is as follows (West to lead):

East leads a Club and West will now be squeezed. When South plays the third round of Clubs, West must unguard his Spade or discard the winning Heart.

VARIATION 2

If a Diamond is led
After the second lead of Hearts West leads Two of Diamonds. East wins with Nine of Diamonds and leads Five of Clubs. South wins this trick and leads the Two of Spades. East wins with Jack of Spades and then leads the Eight of Clubs.

South wins this trick and leads the Five of Diamonds. North wins with Ace and leads the King of Diamonds, followed by the Seven of Diamonds which East wins.

Situation is now (East to lead):

If a Club is led
South does not take the first Heart. He takes the second Heart and leads another Heart, which is won by West. East discards a Club. West leads a Club, which South wins with the Jack. South leads a Spade, which is won by East with the Jack.

East leads the Queen of Diamonds which North wins with the Ace. North leads a Club, which East must win with the Ten.

Strength And Resources

Confederation Life Association

GROWTH SHOWN DURING LAST YEAR

Growth in strength and resources is shown in the 64th annual report of the Confederation Life Association, the total assets of which, at the close of 1935, reached the sum of $106,377,995, an increase for the year of $7,246,913. The assets have been carried into the balance sheet at their book values, which are less by $1,500,000 than their value as determined by the Insurance Department of the Dominion of Canada.

The Association's reserves for assurance and annuity contracts now amount to $97,866,502, an increase of $6,272,604 over the year 1934.

Total net income for 1935 amounted to $21,695,954. As consideration for annuities, $1,306,703 was received during the year. Net premium income, excluding annuities, amounted to $13,554,716.

Surplus earned in 1935 amounted to $2,827,827—"a very excellent result," the directors declare in their report. "In view of the rates of interest at which investments can be made." The total surplus, as at December 31, 1935, amounted to $7,805,066, of which $3,398,440, an increase of $401,283 over the same item for 1934, is held free and unallotted to policyholders, and available to meet any future contingency.

Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries during the year amounted to the large sum of $12,368,489, of which $2,657,623 was for death claims and $1,485,454 for matured endowments. Dividends to policyholders amounted to $2,123,075. Fewer policies were surrendered in 1935, the amount paid in cash surrender values being $550,352 less than in 1934.

New Assurances
During 1935 new assurances struck. It was invented by Mr. Carl Repelaer, and when he asked a group of the best players in England to tackle it they needed over eight hours to work out the various solutions.

were issued and paid for to the amount of $47,730,122, including revived policies. Total insurances in force at the end of 1935 amounted to $387,064,752.

In his remarks on the excellent report presented, Mr. C. S. Macdonald, President, referred to the fact that the Confederation Life Association is an international institution, carrying on business in 20 countries of the world, and with only a little less than one-half of its business coming from branches outside Canada.

"The development of the life insurance business abroad by Canadian companies is something," said Mr. Macdonald, "of which all Canadians might well be proud, bearing evidence of the confidence which people of other countries have in the good faith and integrity of Canadian institutions."

Great Progress Shown
"The year 1934 was good, but 1935 was better—an extraordinarily good one," was the comment of Mr. V. R. Smith, General Manager, on the progress of the Confederation Life Association during the past year. Business conditions, he said, have improved, and show every sign of further improvement in 1936.

"Life insurance men are the employees of the thrifty, hired for the sole purpose of taking care of the hard-won savings of many people who sacrifice to-day that neither they, in their old age, nor their dependants, in the event of their untimely deaths, become recipients of the charity of the State."

CONDUCTED TOURS OF FORD WORKS

are also in great demand by visiting technicians who wish to study Ford methods in some particular branch, such as the coke by-products plant, or the glass factory, or the immense steel mills. The regular conducted trip requires 194 hours, but special trips may take as long as is reasonably necessary.

To handle the large number of visitors, which reached a peak of 22,940 in August last year, six 21-passenger Ford V-8 buses and two Ford V-8 station wagons were used.

SOVIET AND JAPAN

Tension Somewhat
Relieved

London, Yesterday.
The Moscow correspondent of the Daily Telegraph writes that the tension between Japan and the Soviet has to some extent been relieved by Mr. Hirota's frank admission that the army leaders in Manchukuo did not inform him for 24 hours of the battle on Tuesday and Wednesday.
Mr. Hirota's assurance that he intends to keep a stricter control over the army leaders is welcomed

CAMBRIDGE WIN BOAT RACE

WIN IN GREAT STYLE
Cambridge were 2 1/2 lengths ahead at the White Hart and four at Mortlake. Brewery. As the boats came into sight at the finish
Cambridge went all out, stroking
36. Oxford spurred magnificently, but Cambridge won in great style.
None of the Cambridge crew appeared distressed and the Oxford men, apart from Garside and
Cherry, sat up manfully.
The official result is stated to be as follows:—

in 21 minutes 6 seconds.—Reuter.

sociated with the Boat Race and previous dinner of the Association.

SCOTLAND SOCCER CHAMPIONS

FORCE DRAW AGAINST ENGLAND

90,000 WITNESS GRIM STRUGGLE ON HISTORIC WEMBLEY GROUND

London, Yesterday.

A crowd of 90,000 saw Scotland win the International Football Championship when they forced England to share two goals, after being a goal in arrears at the interval, at Wembley Stadium in bright sunshine to-day.

Scotland, who tied with England for the honour, last year, last won the title outright in the 1928-9 season.

Sagar (Everton) replaced
Hibbs in the England goal while Barclay (Sheffield United) was brought into the side in place of Bowden. Scotland made one change, Venters (Rangers) displacing McPhail. All the absentees are on the injured list.

Huggood won the toss and England kicked off against a strong wind.

TWO BAD BLUNDERS

Scotland swung the ball about more and were more accurate in their passing than England, but the latter pressed from the start;
and Cammell was presented with a
"sitter" five yards from the goal, but he shot wide! Only seconds later—in the 27th minute—the English leader missed an even easier chance!

After 31 minutes, following a perfect movement by Brook and Bastin the latter tapped the ball to Cammell, who this time easily scored.

Scotland, who did not deserve to be a goal in arrears at this period, had very bad luck when Walker hit the post and then just grazed the crossbar with stinging drives.

Half-time arrived with England leading by the only goal scored.

DOUBTFUL PENALTY

Early in the second half Cam-sell again missed two easy chances, and Scotland equalised from a penalty, converted by Walker.
There was some doubt regarding the decision as McCulloch appeared to fall on his own accord and was not tripped by Barker.

The following were the teams:
emerged winners by two clear
goals.

England: Sagar; Male, Haggood;
Graydon, Barker, Bray; Crooks,
Barclay, Cammell, Bastin and Brooke.
Scotland: Dawson (Rangers);
Anderson (Hearts), Cummings (Aston Villa); Massie (Aston Villa), Simpson (Rangers), Brown (Rangers);
Crum (Celtic), Walker (Hearts),
McCulloch (Brentford), Venters
(Rangers) and Duncan (Derby). —

emerged winners by two clear
goals.

since the 1923-4 season, when the score was 1-1, also at Wembley.
Scotland have won 27 times,
England 18 and 15 have been drawn.

HAUTMANN EXECUTED

CONFIDENT TO END

Warden Kimberling subsequently said that Hauptmann made no request and no confession. He had not lost his courage and was apparently confident up to the end that something would arrive to save him.

A fruitless last-minute effort was made by Mrs. Hauptmann to save her husband. She swore a complaint formally charging Wendel with the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby. A half-hour conference between Governor
Hoffmann and the State Attorney,
Mr. Willentz, followed, but the last hope was dashed when it was announced that Mr. Hoffmann had no further power to grant a reprieve.

LAST-MINUTE EFFORT

Earlier—A desperate last-minute effort is being made to save Bruno Hauptmann, whose execution is fixed for 1 a.m. G.M.T. today.

The defence counsel is trying to obtain a stay of execution to allow a Grand Jury to investigate the charges against Paul Wendel,
a disbarred lawyer, for the murder of the Lindbergh baby. The Public Prosecutor, Mr. Willentz, however, says that the execution of Hauptmann must be carried out unless he is reprieved.—Reuter.

E. D. ("Buster") Andrews, above, the well-known Davis Cup player, will take part in exhibition matches at the H.K.C.C. next Thursday afternoon.

MANY VISITORS
TO CANTON

DANGER OF OVERCROWDING OF TOW-BOATS

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.
To prevent overcrowding on tow-boats and diesel-engined craft plying between Canton and the interior, Lieut.-Commander Ting
Exeter, the new Director of Port Administration Affairs (Harbour Master), went on a cruise along the West River to-day aboard a gunboat.

People are leaving here for their native homes in order to pay homage to their ancestors at their graves, and all tow-boats and trains leaving the city for various parts of the city are full to capacity. Overcrowding of these vessels is a source of danger to the passengers, in view of the shallow draught of the boats.

Over 3,000 people arrived here to-day by steamers and trains from Hong Kong, and more will arrive by this evening and tomorrow. They are coming here to pay respects to their departed ancestors buried in Canton and the surrounding districts, as to-morrow is Ching Ming or Spring Festival, a date set aside for the worshipping of the dead.

The Canton-Kowloon Railway is running extra expresses to-day and to-morrow for the accommodation of the big crowd.

CURRY DINNER FOR CRICKETERS

K.C.C. Celebrates
Victory

There was a very pleasant function at the Kowloon Cricket Club last evening when members of the cricket team, who won the first division shield, were entertained to a curry dinner by their genial captain, Mr. Frank Goodwin. The Vice-President of the Club, Mr.
Ezra Abraham, was also present.
In the course of the evening the members of the team were recipients of medallions, presented by Mr. Justice Lindell, the President, and Mr. Ezra Abraham, while appropriate speeches were made by Messrs. Abraham and Goodwin.

WEATHER REPORT

The anti-cyclone appears to be moving into the eastern sea;
the depression has reached abnormal intensity and is moving north-eastward across Hok-kaido. North-east winds, moderate; cloudy, some drizzle or light rain, probably improving, was the forecast for to-day,
as issued by the Royal Observatory last evening.
